twenty-five years. He first came into promnence as a remover when he tried with other Sedalians, to have the State University moved from Columbia to Sedalia two years ago. He was unsuccessful in his at-tempt, and made up his mind then that to get the capital, which Sedalia has wanted for twenty years, something more than a plea would have to be made to the various legislators. One of the men who helped de-feat the University removal scheme was Representative D. J. Ryan of St. Louis. It was during that fight that Mr. Quigley became acquainted with Mr. Ryan and a preciated his powers. Mr. Ryan is now Mr. Quigley's right-hand man. When Mr. Quigley returned to Sedalla after losing his University removal fight he began evolving the great scheme, the climax ng to collect their senses.

At present it involves 10,000 acres of land in and about Sedalia, and an investment of $1,500,000. Should the proposition to femove the capital carry, that amount will be increased to $16,000,000 or $15,000,000.

In this deal are interested from 1000 to 1000 in the Senate last Wednesday. He unfolded it to his chief collegue, O. A. Crandall, President of the Missouri Trust' Co. of Sedalia. His scheme was this:

He decided to form a corporation with a capital stock of $100,000. The shares should be $25 each, and with the capital he would secure an option on every piece of vacant in the senate last wednesday. He unfolded it to his chief collegue, O. A. Crandall, President of the Missouri Trust' Co. of Sedalia. His scheme was this: the property in six months. Sedalians who Farwell of Chicago will furnish the money to carry the deal. This President Quigley denies. He says the Missouri Trust Co. will furnish the entire balance of the $1,600,000 and take a blanket mortgage on the whole property, with the arrangement that as each piece of property is sold it can be cleared of the incumbrance. When asked where the money was to come from he said from England, where most of the debenture bonds of the Trust company are

The money raised was used in paying for the first option on the land, which amounted to about $1,000,000 or 5 per cent of the purchase price of the 10,000 acres. A small blaance of about $15,000 scress. A small blaance of about $15,000 remained which, added to a like amount subscribed by the citizens of Sedalia, was used to grease the wheels and pay for printing and other necessary expenses. If the bill for submission of the constitutional amendment, they see nothing out of the way in interesting—yes, that's the word they use, "interesting," prominent men and politicians in the removal plan by making them next and parcel of the deal and then through them working the Legislature.

"And, then," said Mr. Quigley and his colleagues insist that the way the Legislature was influenced was legitimate. They say that while the deal is a big one, while it myolves millions of dollars, and while it myolves millions of the constitutional amendment, they say that the word they use, "interesting," prominent men and politicians in the removal plan by making them next and parcel of the deal and then through them working the Legislature.

When he thought the proper time for ac-When he thought the proper time for action had arrived Mr. Quigley set the wheels of the machine in motion. Politicians—bosses who had a pull—saw their representatives and Senators personally. The prominent men in the small towns got up petitions on the quiet, and sent them, together with personal letters to their repre-sentatives. They told them that they must vote for the removal bill. Both the Democratic and Republican bosses wielded the whip and enough legislators to carry the thing through with a whiri were swung into line. Ex-Representative D. J. The Railroad Pooling Bill Laid Out for the Session.

HOT DEBATE IN THE SENATE.

A Leading Member Charged With Being Unduly Interested in Pending Legislation.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.—It is seldom that a United States Senator on the floor of the Senate charges another Senator with being unduly interested in pending legislation. Not only was one Senator thus assailed to-day, but another came in for the assalled to-day, but another came in for the same kind of drubbing by the same Senator on the same bill. The measure was the pooling bill, which has been passed by the House, and of which Senators Butler and Wolcott are the champions in the Senate. They and the bill were attacked by Senator Chandler this afternoon in the most sensational manner. The bill was practically thrown out of the chamber and its two friends were made to writhe under the veiled but stinging remarks of their New Hampshire opponent.

friends were made to writhe under the veiled but stinging remarks of their New Hampshire opponent.

Their manifestations of resentment and anger were so plain that the crowds in the gallery, for they became packed as Chandler continued, semed to thoroughly enjoy the effect of the finuendoes and keen thrusts of the New Englander, who was in full possession of his powers of sarcasm and irony. Even the Senate itself could not refrain from manifesting its delight. John Sherman chuckled like a schoolhoy at Chandler's clever hits, Hill looked as if he was on the point of clapping several times, and here and there Senators nudged each other during the roasting process. It was high time that somebody spoke out in the Senate against the lobbylets who have thronged the Capitol in the interests of this pooling bill. It is a measure designed by the railroad companies to prevent competition by law, and allow them to pool on freight rates and receipts, by repealing the prohibitory section of the Internatate Commerce Act. To get this act through Congress the roads bave sant their biggest man by the score to Washington, and the Senate all winter. They were particularly this measure, rightly characterized by Senator Chandler as in the interests of eleven thousand million dollars of combined capital.

HISTORY OF THE MEASURE.

This measure has been one of many and conflicting interests. Had it been properly handled it might have been engineered to a successful issue. Senator Gorman early in the present Congress introduced a pooling bill modifying the anti-ppoling section of the Inter-State Commerce act, and had it referred to the Commerce Committee. The course of the committee was significant. They waited till the pooling bill passed the House before taking decisive action. Every amendment prepared to the House bill was promptly voted down in committee and the House bill, word for word, was reported to the Senate on the 22d of January. While the raliroad magnates had a first been inclined to suggest certain amendments they finally agreed that the House bill should be pressed to a vote in the Senate absolutely without change. Like all great combinations they were too sure of their strength and began to make mistakes. The first one was in allowing the Baltimore lawyer-politician and civil service reformer, G. K. Cowan, to fill too prominent a position in behalf of the measure. This immediately argueed the antagonism of Senator Gorman, whom Cowan has fought for a generation in Maryland politics. Gorman is the craftiest financer in the Democratic party. His batteries are always masked and he is fond of ambuscades. The rejection of his amendments by the Commerce Commission gave him sufficient excuse to personally oppose the measure and he skill-fully used his position as Chairman of the railroad managers had counted noses accurately enough and could the bill have been brought to a vote in the Senate it would inquestionably have passed. But with the certainty that it would be debated to the end of the session on the motion to give it consideration was overwhelmingly defeated.

Charges and counter-charges are thick to-day. The acrimony of defeat bas nettled the fact that there were at least twelve Sen-ators prepared to debate it indefinitely, and that he himself would expect to be heard for at least a day.

Mr. Butler said that Mr. Peffer was frank-er than other Senators in confessing a de-termination on the part of himself and eleven other Senators to fillbuster the bill to death, and added that he would only like to have an opportunity to give them a chance to try the fillbuster.

Mr. Peffer disclaimed any desire to fill-buster.

GORMAN REPLIES.

Mr. Gorman arose to reply to what he characterized as Mr. Butler's assault upon him, which was uncalled for, and, so far as he was sware, unjustified by any action of his "It is true," he said, "an stated by the Senator from South Carolins, that I introduced a peoling bill, and if is true that I announced that I was friendly to a pooling bill that would be fair and just to the rall-roads and the people, but I introduced it as I introduce hundreds of other bills, and I was not committed to any single provision of it—to nothing in it, except to the general idea."

FROM HIS WIFE.

Trusten P. Dyer Has Begun an Extraordinary Divorce Suit.

ASKS FOR $10,000 TO LIVE ON

He Has Been in Seattle Since He Hastily Left St. Louis With His Masonic Home Accounts In Bad Shape.

There are many persons in St. Louis who remember Trusten P. Dyer, nephew of Col. Pat. Dyer, an attorney, man about town, and at one time prominent in Masonic circles, and a bit of news that came last night from the Pacific coast will doubtless inter-distely there had been prolonged debate and very shortly afterwards execulty assaion. That might deceive some folks, he added "but it did not deceive me. Lef the been a vote on this bill."

"You cannot get a vote on a bill until you get it before the Senate." replied Mr. Hale.

"Will you vote to take it up now?" eagerly asked Mr. Butler. "No." was ther reply. "I'll not vote to take up this bill or any other until we can see our way clear for the appropriations."

Mr. Butler said that if he could get like bill up and found it would interfere with the appropriations."

"The Senator from Arkansas," he said, sarcastically, referring to Mr. Jones, "may exceed me in grace in withdrawing bills, but not in readiness when the need becomes apparent."

Mr. Peffer said that it might be some relief to the Senator from South Carolina to know that he could not pass the bill for twenty days, in proof of which he adduced the fact that there were at least twelve Senators prepared to debate it indennitely, and that he biggself would extract that he had found a number of mistake being self to the Senator from South Carolina to know that he could not pass the bill for twenty days, in proof of which he adduced the fact that there were at least twelve Senators prepared to debate it indefinitely, and that he briggself would extract the self-size of $2.00.

The report of the expert was immediately spread before Dyer's relative, and without any show of protest he drew up a check for any show of protest he drew up a check for the full amount. Unfortunately, however, he carelessly drew the check against a bank in which he had no funds on deposit, and this bit of carelessness caused the direc-tors increased uneasiness.

bade fair to rent the secrecy that is sup-posed to seal the lips of Masonry. Threats of prosecution were made, but were never carried into effect, for Dyer's brother-in law, a Mr. Jackson, came from his home in law, a Mr. Jackson, came from his home in Troy. Mo., and paid the full amount of the shortage. It is also said that Dyer secured $1,000 from his bride to pay off part of this obligation to the Masons, and that he used it for another purpose.

Dyer led a gay life in St. Louis, and was a member of the Mercantile Club.

Nearly $220,000 Appropriated a Year to Clean Them.

A MASS OF MUD AND FILTH.

The Superintendent of Street Cleaning Says There Is No Place to Dump the Dirt.

The cost of street cleaning in St. Louis amount to nearly $220,000.

That is an average of about $18,000 a month. The question that is now agitating the tax payers is what good purpose the proportional share of January and February in this fund, about $33,000, served. The streets are indescribably filthy. One needs to go but a block away from Broadway to become convinced that the streets of St. Louis are in a worse condition than has been known in a quarter of a century.

What has become of the $220,000 spent by the Street Cleaning Department in the fiscal year 1894-95?

A $121,000 APPROPRIATION.

The appropriation for carts and labor to be used in cleaning macadam, telford and limestone streets under the direction of the Superintendent of Street Cleaning, was $121,000, besides $3,000, salaries of ten overseers at $75 a month. By Feb. 1 $109,630,88 of the sum first mentioned had been spent leaving a balance of $11,468.42. The Municipal Assembly will be asked to grant an appropriation of $5,000 more.

The appropriation for contract sweeping of asphalt, wood and grante streets was $72,900, besides a salary allowance of $2,100. There remained on Feb. 1 a balance of $12,436,65 and a further appropriation of at least $2,000 is to be asked for.

There remained on Feb. 1 a balance of $12, 436,05 and a further appropriation of at least $2,000 is to be asked for.

Besides these sums the Street Cleaning Department must be charged with about onphalf of the salaries of the Superintendent, three District Superintendents, and clerk at $100 a month, and three clerks at $50 a month, not to mention the $5,000 Street Commissioner and his bookkeeper. The Superintendent, Capt. Thomas H. Macklind, draws $175 a month, the Assistant Superintendent $100, an overser of street sweeping at $75 and three District Superintendents $125 a month each.

and three District Superintendents size a month each.

The result of this expenditure in this present month of February is mud, slush, filth, snow drifts and caked ice.

In residence districts mud knee-deep covers the streets. In many sections crossings are wholly obliterated for hundreds of yards. Patrons of the street cars are compelled to wade through mud above their shoe tops to get on the cars and are dumped in veritable mud ponds when they reach their homes. The sidewalks are, as a result, themselves tracked up with the all prevalent soil and liberal supplies are carried into thousands of homes to make work for the housewives of St. Louis.

Louis. THE SAME EVERYWHERE. It is useless to mention particular streets. Residents of Carondelet, Baden, North and South St. Louis and the aristocratic West End dispute with each other upon the comparative filthiness and unsightliness of the streets in their respective localities. Nor is the downtown district sparcd, Eleventh and Twelfth streets rank with any in their meglected appearance, Within a few yards of the City Hall, almost under the nose of Street Commissioner Murphy and Superintendent Macklind black oozy mud mingled with garbage, refuse of all kinds, cast off fruit, and the slush of snow and ice makes the streets unsightly and disgusting. In the gutters ice has piled a foot high. It lies melting along with chance decay products caught by the storm of three by four weeks.

meiting along with chance decay products caught, by the storm of three or four weeks.

The granite pavements are not much better than any other. East of Broadway and Fourth street no signs of street cleaning activity were visible until Friday. Ice and snow have accumulated unhindered for weeks. In places great ruts and holes have been worn by heavily laden wagons. Teams labor and strain in passing up the naturally heavy slopes from the East End streets and wagons are worse used than they should be by six months of ordinary wear.

Maj. Murphy announced Thursday that Washington's Birthday was going to be celebrated in an unparalleled manner. A regular New York George Waring street cleaning was promised is the district between Washington avenue and Market street and Main and Third streets. A reporter visited this section at 4:30 p. m. the following day and found evidence of a little scraping and digging in spots on four or five blocks. Nowhere was a finished place to be found.

WARING'S METHODS.

George Waring cleaned the streets of New York but he did not allow the methods of the St. Louis Street Cleaning Department. He did not allow mow to be trodden and mashed down for months before beginning work. He rose at 5 a. m. and got the snow off the day after the storm.

Paved streets half a dozen blocks from the hotel and office building section are as badly neglected as suburban thoroughfares. Fortunately there is a solid foundation and one can rarely sink in deeper than his ankles on business streets like Franklin avenue if reasonable care is exercised.

Sweeping machines, shovel, hoe and cart would seem to have been given a month's rest, judging from the appearance of things. The St. Louis type of sweeping, resulting in the plastering of mud in the cracks of the pavement, is not by any means satisfactory, as even Broadway proves. However, it is better than nothing.

FIRE ENGINES STALLED.

One incident of last week's history strikingly shows the terrible condition of the city's thoroughfares. Fire broke out in a boarding-house near Cora avenue in the northwestern section of the city. The fire engines, hose truck and hook and ladder wagons stalled on the way. A second alarm had to be turned in and guides were necessary to pilot the firemen by a round-about route in order that the worst streets might be avoided.

NO DUMPING PLACE.

Capt. Macklind referred to the severity of the winter and what he termed the small size of available funds compared to the large amount of work to be done. "We have over 400 men at work on the crossings from Carondelet to Baden," said Capt. Macklind, "and I ordered the contractors to double their force on the paved streets. I believe they have about lifty-five teams and 140 men at work.

"We are doing all we can. There are over 400 miles of improved streets, including sixty-three miles of street that must be swept. The limited appropriations we get do not permit everything to be done that we desire. Our aim is to clean the down-town streets and to clean the cross-walks.

"To show how the appropriations compare with the cost of work that should be done; it would cost $1,000 to clean Cass avenue from Hogan street to Grand avenue, a distance of twelve blocks.

"I, know Easton avenue, like many other streets, is in a fearful condition. We can do little as long as the streets stay frozen."

The reporter remarked that the people of St. Louis would be surprised to learn that the mud they had been wading through was frozen.

Cantain Macklind replied that the streets

"Another difficulty we encounter is that of dumping," resumed Captain Mackind.

"The river is frozen, and our dump boats can not be used. The Harbor Commissioner will hardly allow us to dump snow and lee on the levee. Of course that will have to be cleared away when the river opens."

Taxpayers, however, wanted that $200,000 in order to get the stregts cleaned, and employed a high-priced corps of men to see the work done, to devise ways of doing it, not to devise reasons why lit is not done.

Judges Caldwell, Sanborn and Thayer of the United States Court of Appeals yesterday decided four cases, Judge Thayer delivering the opinion in each:

ering the opinion in each:

The decision of the United States Court of the Indian Territory in the case of Nannie Cameron vs. the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Road was reversed and a new trial ordered. Miss Cameron sued for and was awarded damages because a train of the defendant's line on which she traveled from Gainesville, Tex., failed to stop at Moore, a small station in Oklahoma and she was compelled to go on to Norman, nine miles further, and come back in the rain, this impairing her health and causing her unnecessary expense and inconvenience.

sine was compelied to go on to Norman, nine miles further, and come back in the rain, this impairing her health and causing her unnecessary expense and inconvenience.

Judge Thayer, in an elaborate opinion, sustained the decision of the United States of James O. Hall vs. the Missouri Pacific Railway Company. Hall sued and was awarded damages for an unreasonable delay on the part of the Missouri Pacific in transporting thirty-one head of cattle from Nomota, I. T., to Chloago. The testimony showed that the defendant delivered the cattle to Kansas City all right, but made a mistake in unloading the cattle there instead of turning them right over to the Wabash, which resulted in their getting to Chloago several hours too late for market on June 22, 1891.

In the case of the State National Bank of St. Joseph, Mo., versus the Newton National Bank, the decision was affirmed. The St. Joseph Bank sued the Newton bank for $20,000 alleged to be due on two promissory notes, executed July 21, 1890, by C R. McLain and other members of his family, payable to the order of the McLain Live Stock Company, and subsequently sold to the St. Joseph Bank. C. R. McLain is cashier of the Newton Bank The St. Joseph Bank claimed that it had discounted these notes at the request of the Newton Bank and although they were not indorsed, that Cashier C. R. McLain had agreed that if they were not redeemed at maturity they might be charged to the Newton bank. The Newton bank and although they were not indorsed, that Cashier C. R. PEORIA'S NEW COMPANY.

It May Make Trouble for the Whisky Trust.

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 23.—Plans are on foot here for the organization of a new distilling "combine," which will prove a most formid-able competitor to the Distilling and Cattle Feeding Co. and the new Spirits Trust. The plan contemplates the organization of a stock company with a capital of $2,000,000 to purchase the Peoria plants of the Wisky Trust in case they should be ordered sold by the court.

Trust in case they should be ordered sold by the court.

In case the plants are not ordered sold, an opposition distillery is to be built, and an option has already been secured on an available piece of ground. On this the Peorlans propose to erect the largest distillery ever built. It will have a capacity of 15,000 bushpropose to erect the largest distillery ever built. It will have a capacity of 15,000 bushels of grain a day. Efforts will be made to co-operate with Sam Woolner, who last year built here what is now the largest distillery in the country with a capacity of 8,000 bushels a day. The two houses alone would be able to supply nearly all the trade, as they would have an output of more than 100,000 gallons a day. The projectors of the new company hold that it will prove the most formidable competitor the old trust ever had.

THE THIRD BRIDGE.

Congressman Forman Working Hard in Its Benalf.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.-Repre washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—Representative Forman, accompanied by Mayor Stephens of East St. Louis and Mr. Rodenberg, had conferences yesterday and this afternoon with Senator Allison in reference to the St. Louis bridge bill, and secured the Senator's promise that he would not oppose the consideration of the measure. Though opposed to passing the bill, he has concluded to let it be taken off the calendar for consideration. consideration.

What Senator George will do, is still a puzzle; but Forman will try to win him puzzle; but Forman will try to win him over.

The main trouble now is to get an opening for a motion to get unanimous consent to consider it. If no objection is made to it—and all efforts are now straining to that end—then the friends of the bridge project feel confident of being able to pass it by the required two-thirds majority. Action to-day was out of the question, because of the fight over the pooling bill.

IN THE HOUSE.

If It Goes Through It Will Cost the Country $400,000.

EAGERNESS FOR EXTRA PAY.

Tracy and Livingstone Lead the Grab bers, but They Will All Have to Go on Record.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.—A salary grab, amounting to about $400,000, was rushed through the committee of the whole of the House to-day, and over a ruling of the Chairman.

General Tracey offered an amendment to the general deficiency bill, giving to every employe of the House and Senate an extra month's pay. This amendment meant an increase in the appropriation of more than $300,000. The bill, moreover, carried an item making provision for the "extra services" of reading clerks and others. These reading clerks draw salaries until the new Congress organizes, and under the proposed gratuities, they would draw about $3,300 each without doing a single day's work.

As this grab seems to meet with favor, Mr. Livingstone of Georgia went General Tracey one better, and offered an amendment which will give each members to one month's extra pay. Livingstone amendment entitled the clerks of members to one month's extra pay. Livingstone is one of the most vociferous howlers of economy, but when it came to putting $100 in his pocket, he led the raiders.

A point of order was made against the Livingstone amendment entiling. Livingstone and the Chairman sustained it. Then the grabbers jumped up, and Mr. Livingstone and his fellow-grabbers carried the appeal.

Mr. Dockery brought out very plainly that the Livingstone amendment was nothing short of a grab. "If you want to do this thing," he said, "you will have to mend it so as to vote the members individually as disbursing officers $100 a month, I ask members on both sides if they are willing to go on record in favor of such a motion."

When the bill gets back into the House there will be a yea and nay vote, and the grabbers will have to go on record. Livingstone is the member who thought pieces of old carpet would make good enough saddle cloths for the West Point cadets.

ACTION BY THE SENATE. Plan for a Commission in the Monetary Conference.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.—In the Senate to-day a memorial from the Idaho egislature was presented protesting against the pooling bills as a plan to place the railoads in the hands of a vast syndicate and hus crush competition under the iron heel solution for an investigation by the committee of the effect of the tariff and internal revenue laws.

Mr. Wolcott (Rep.) Colorado, then came forward with an interesting proposition authorizing the creation of an American commission to act with foreign countries should they take the initiative in an international monetary conference. The plan was offered as an amendment to the sundry civil bill now on the calendar and about to be taken up. It is as follows:

Whereas, the President of the United States, upon invitation of Germany or Great Britain, or any of the other Governments or Europe, shall determine that this Government shall be represented at any international or other conference to be held with a view to securing internationally a fixity of money by means of a common ratio between those metals with free mintage at such ratio; he shall be authorized to request the attendance of the commission to be appointed as hereinafter provided so as to attend such conference in behalf of the United States; the number of such commissioners shall be nine.

The President of the United States shall the number of such commissioners shall be nine.

The President of the United States shall appoint by and with the consent of the Senate three of said commissioners prior to the adjournment of the present Congress; the others shall be a joint committee of this congress, three to be members of the Senate and three of the House of Representatives. If, after the adjournment of this Congress, there shall be any vacancies in said commission by death, resignation or otherwise, such vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the President.

The amendment makes available $100,000 for appointment by the President.
The amendment makes available $100,000 for the expenses of the commission.
"It is satisfactory," said Mr. Wolcott, "to those who vote fof bimetallism and it should be satisfactory to those gentlemen who talk for bimetallism and vote against it and who await with ravished eyes to see what England will do."
He asked that the amendment go to the Finance Committee.

He asked that the amendment go to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Hale made the suggestion that the sundry civil bill was so soon to be considered that there should be no delay in getting the amendment from the Finance Committee and to the Appropriation Committee.

A bill was passed to correct an error in the recent Chicago public building bill, by which the old building was to be sold to the "lowest" bidder instead of the "highest."

the recent Chicago public building bill, by which the old building was to be sold to the "lowest" bidder instead of the "highest".

An hour was given to the sharp controversy over stopping work on the Delaware River bridge at Philadelphia. The Board of Army Engineers investigated the height, span, etc. Mr. McPherson of New Jersey withdrew his opposition to the inquiry and his motion to reconsider the resolution directing an investigation.

The credentials of Mr. McCaffery, Dem., of Louislana, for another term beginning March 4 next was presented by his colleague, Mr. Blanchard.

Mr. George, Dem., of Mississippi, submitted the results of an inquiry by the committee on agriculture concerning the cultivation of cotton.

Consideration was resumed on the Indian appropriation bill, and Mr. Kyle offered an amendment that the word "Indian" shall include not only those of full blood, but those of mixed blood, of whatever degree, while tribal relations are maintained. At the conclusion of Mr. Kyle's remarks Mr. Allison made the point of order that the pending amendment was new legislation. The Vice-President sustained the point and the amendment was ruled out.

Mr. Kyle then introduced an amendment providing that all stock, cattle and horses purchased for the Indians on respective plantations should be of the best obtainable grade, and that all male animals should be full blooded stock. Adopted.

Mr. Manderson presented an amendment refunding to the Mismi Indians 48,528. The amendment was adopted.

Mr. Pettigrew introduced an amendment appropriating $157,306 to reimburse the Crow Creek Indians for receiving less than their per capita share of land when their reservation was diminished. It was provided that the secretary might pay $50,000 of the amount in cash. Agreed to.

At this point the President's secretary appeared with nominations, including that of Senator Ransom as Minister to Mexico. Immediately Mr. Blackburn moved an executive session. He said that the Senators knew for what purpose, and without any further del

This money is good for all debts to $6, and we have the surptus bullion in the Treasury, and this gives us the finest opportunity in the world to pay this debt. I don't think we would break Wall street by the kransaction, and we would certainly not lower the credit of the United States in Wall street or London."

"If should hate to make the Creek Nation accept its debt in such small coin," said Mr. Aldrich.

"If I had a million dollar debt against the Senator from Rhode Island," retorted Mr. Morgan, "I would be glad to accept it in silver."

"The Senator would be very wise to accept it," commented Mr. Aldrich.

"Would the Senator accept $60,000 on a debt in silver if he were the Creek Nation?"

Morgan, "I would be giad to accept it in silver."

"The Senator would be very wise to accept it," commented Mr. Aldrich.

"Would the Senator accept $600,000 on a debt in silver if he were the Creek Nation?" asked Mr. Chandler of Mr. Morgan.

"Very cheerfully," replied Mr. Morgan.

"Very cheerfully," replied Mr. Morgan.

The vote was then taken on Mr. Aldrich's amendment providing for the immediate payment of $800,000 of the debt and the chair announced it carried.

Mr. Morgan then offered his amendment providing for the payment in silver coin.

An amendment by Mr. Aldrich to the Morgan amendment adding these words: "Or in such other lawful money of the United States as the Creek Nation shall desire," was adopted, and then the Morgan amendment as amended was adopted without division.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Gen. Ballington Booth, with his personal staff, arrived this afternoon after a tour of the principal cities of the United States and Canada. He sails on the Faris on Wednesday, and will get an enthusiastic send-off. The entire Salvation Army in New York and vicinity will be on the pier. Gen. Booth will be the guest of Mr. J. M. Cornell, the wealthy iron merchant, during his stay. He will address a meeting at Cooper Union on Monday evening. On Tuesday evening a farewell reception will be tendered him. He is expected to describe his recent trip, and to speak on the work of the future at that time. He spent two days last month with Lord Aberdeen in Ottawa, and at his request explained the social scheme. He will go direct to London, where preparations are making to receive him. After a short visit there he will go for a tour through India.

MRS. W. I. R. THOMPSON, of Montgomery, knee badly sprained.

Three or four others were slightly bruised and wounded, but they went on to New Orleans.

Mrs. Wisdom, Mrs. Schoolcraft, Mrs. Thompson returned to Montgomery; Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Moody and daughter returned to Greenville and are being cared for at the Ehibert House. Their injuries are not believed to be dangerous.

The man who was killed was sitting on a front seat in the front ceach with a little girl who was not hurt. She said he told her he was a barber and was going home to New Orleans from the West to see his mother after a long absence. He had nothing by which he could be identified. Who he is is a mystery. His neck was broken by his being thrown sgainst the stove.

CAUSE OF THE DISASTER.

A railroad man informed the Post-Dispatch correspondent that the track was in perfect order and the wreck was either caused by an obstruction being placed on the track or something falling from the engine. The mail car, baggage car, two coaches and a sleeper were thrown from the track and burned. The free originated from a stove in the baggage car, two coaches caught fire. Two sleepers remained on the track and burned. The free originated from a stove in the baggage car, the coaches were crowded with passengers roing to the Mardi-Gras and the accident created a panic among them. For a time it was believed that many lives had been lost. That more were not lost seemed a miracle to those who saw the wreck.

POLICE IN CHURCH.

Called on to Subdue Twin Evangelists at Pana.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

PANA, Ill., Feb. 23.—The police were summoned to the Presbyterian Church in this city this afternoon to subdue Rev. Morrili's twins, traveling evangelists. The twins declined to take the children into the Sunday school rooms, as they had a contract for the use of the church and shoved the pastor away and passed in. The isnitor came to the pastor's rescue and called the police, who restored order. The twins' father is a retired Baptist minister of La Grange, a suburb of Chicago, who formerly preached in St. Louis.

WORK OF WOMAN'S COUNCIL

Women of England Compared With Those of America by Lady Somerset

Special to The Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.—Art and Education were the subjects considered to-day by the Woman's Council. The first pa-per read was entitled:

"How Can the Higher Art Be Brought to Bear Upon the Common People, Through the Common Home and the Common

Mrs. Clara Bewick Colby of Washington read a paper on the subject written by Dr.
Julia Holmes Smith of Illinois. It advocated the necessity of inculcating the love of beauty in little children, by drawing their beauty in little children, by drawing their attention to nature, and by pointing out the artistic effects of the sunset. The establishment of libraries for the education of poor people and the introduction of art studies in public schools were also advocated. The discussion which followed was participated in by Sarah M. Stewart of Pennsylvania and Virginia R. Graeff.

Mrs. Nichols thought that churches should be thrown open for children's studies, if they contained anything worthy of observation in architecture, painting or coloring. Isabelia King of South America explained how children are educated in that country.

explained how children are educated in that country.

Papers were read on "Humanitarianism in Education," by Caroline White, of the Anti-Vivisection Society, and on the "Need of Business Education for Women," by Nettle M. McLaughlin, President of the Woman's Stenographers' Association.

Mrs. White made an eloquent plea for the little birds that are killed to ornament ladies' hats. Mrs. White's hat was adpraed with lavender plumes. She said they were ostrich feathers, but had been given to understand that the wing feathers could be cut from that bird without hurting the bird. This explanation was not made until the discussion began to get personal, and was thus anded.

This explanation was not made until the discussion began to get personal, and was thus ended.

Other papers of the day included one from Mrs. Thomas W. Chase of Rhode Island on "Organized Work in Politics," and "The Kindergarten as an Economic Pactor in Education," by Virginia Graeff of Pennsylvania and Jessie E. Peers of New York. "Child Study" was descanted on by Jennie B. Merrill of New York. "Child Study" was descanted on by Jennie B. Merrill of New York.

Susan B. Anthony read a paper written by Elizabeth Cady Stanton of New York, who on account of age was not able to be present. The paper was entitled "Our Proper Attitude Toward Immigration," by Mrs. I. C. Manchester of Rhode Island followed. The proceedings closed with an address on the "Restriction Upon Immigration," by Minerva Roberts of Colorado.

To-morrow the exercises of the council will be limited to a religious service, when a sermon will be delivered by Rev. Caroline J. Bartlett of Michigan, minister of the People's Church of Kalamazoo, who will take for her text, "The Word of the Spirit." Conspicuous among the delegates is Mrs. Isabella Charles Davis of New York, member of the committee on patriotic instruction. Mrs. Davis possesses the power of chaining the attention of her listeners and gives her illustrations with a simple earnestness that reaches her auditors' heart.

The meetings of the council of women in Washington will continue during the coming week. The work of the council is ast week has been principally that of organizing committees and hearing addresses. The election of officers will not take place until the last day. It is probable that Mrs. Sewall may be succeeded as president by some other prominent lady, possibly Mrs. Dr. Stevenson of Chicago, who, it is said, has a practice worth 25,000 a year. There are many other wealthy ladles among the eligibles, and it is impossible to predict who will be chosen.

Regarding the council, Mrs. Sewall said to a reporter: "The object of this national

Most of the work of the Woman's Council remains to be done during the coming week, but enough has been accomplished to show the world that the women are in earnest, and that this wonderful body of women represents a great movement of the age.

ARMOR PLATE TESTS.

rally expressed by naval experts here that the results of the test made on the 14-inch armor plate at Indian Head Thursday are only a beginning of a revolution in the process of making plates of this class John Leishman, President of the Carnegie Company came to New York in company with Mr. Frick, to consult Mr. Carnegie in reference to the trial and future experi-ments in this process of making plates. He was seen at the hotel by a reporter toments in this process of making plates. He was seen at the hotel by a reporter to-day, and said: "It is, perhaps, a little premature to say that the entire process of making armor plates will be revolutionized by the results of the test made yesterday, but it is certain that a new field for development has suddenly opened, and is impossible to say what results may not be obtained to us by this trial having been made. One thing is evident and that is the making of armor plate is in its infrancy and it now seems to have been reduced to a race between the steel-makers in countries building warships as to who will soonest attain the highest perfection in producing plates. The qualities of steel are so peculiar that any change in the process of handling it in its making may lead to great changes in the result. It might be said that the making of steel also is in its infancy, so that armor plates made of this material are susceptible of great improvement. I cannot say that the Government will order all future plates to be made by this process, but I believe that Capt. Sampson was favorably impressed with the result Thursday. Of course, it is not our place to urge the Government to adopt any particular process. It is our place to make the plates and show what they will stand. The plate tested Thursday was not for any particular ship. It was a Harveyized plate of 17 inches, which was placed under the rollers and reduced to fourteen inches. The trouble with the surface hardening process is that it makes an uneven strain on the plate so that the shock of a projectile striking it is not evenly distributed and makes the plate liable to crack. By taking a Harveyized plate and heating it over again and putting it under the rollers, the whole mass is made more even and the strain is more evenly distributed."

TO A ST. LOUIS ARCHITECT.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 71.—There has been much mystery about the results of the prize competition inaugurated by the Minnesota State Capitol Commission for designs for the new State Capitol. Fifty-six sets of designs were examined by two experts, Edmund M. Wheelright of Boston, and Henry I. Cobb of Chicago. Their report has been rept secret, although both Houses of the Legislature demand it. At Gov. Cloughs' suggestion a committee from each House was named to inspect the report. A local paper to-day publishes the results of the competition. The first prize is awarded to Wendell and Humphries of Denver. second to Julius A. Schweinfurth of Boston; third to Geo. MURDERED AND ROBBED.

John Bohamann Charged With Killing Knoop and Seims.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The police think resterday by Detective Julius Nelson of Hoboken, murdered and robbed Henry Knoop and John Selms, the two boys found asphyxiated Sunday at Miller's Hotel, Willmsburg. A search of the room in the boarding house at 327 Washington street, where he was arrested, revealed $240 hid unboarding house at 237 Washington street, where he was arrested, revealed $240 hid under the carpet. The boys are known to have had $250 when they disappeared from their homes and this money was not found on their bodies. Upon the bed in Bohamann's room was found a pocket-book containing Hoboken ferry pass No. 340, issued to young Seims, a bank book bearing young Knoop's name, and photographs of both boys. Saws like burglars use, a revolver, a slung shot and other articles were also in the room. Bohamann, who is 24 years old, is a member of the Hoboken Sheutzen Corps and well-known in that place. Clerk Fanning of Miller's Hotel positively identified him as the man who entered the hotel with the boys at midnight Saturday and left Sunday before their dead bodies were found. Bohamann positively denies being in any way responsible for the death of the lads.

When the condition of the boys was first discovered on Sunday afternoon the matter was called an "accident" because the stop of the gascock had been turned only half off and because one of the lads was found lying face downward on the floor, as if he had fallen in an endeavor to reach the door. This was the view taken by the Coroner.

Friday last Seims vanished with $150 given him by John Fonda, New York Cashler for the Starin Company, to give to Jas. McGowan. cashler of the Hoboken office. Friday night Knoop packed up his property in Langen's store and drew his wages for the month, saying that he was about to leave his employment on Saturday morning. He drew $125 from the Hoboken Savings Bank and, like Seims, disappeared.
At midnight Saturday they appeared at Miller's Hotel accompanied by a dark-complexioned man. The man asked for one room which would accommodate three persons, but could not get it. Finally he compromised on room No. 1 for the two boys and room No. 4, directly opposite, for himself. This man, the clerk claims, was Bohamann.
At 8:30 a. m. Sunday the man walked into the bar and left the place after giving instructions to let his young friends sleep. At 3 p. m. Sunday the door, which was unlocked, was opened by Kate Byrnes, a chambermald. The room was filled with gas and the dead bodies of the boys were found. Only $5.07 was found on them.

At the funeral of the Seims boy yesterday his parents, when informed that Bohamann had been arrested on suspicion of murdering their son, and informed of the evidence against him, they became frantic, and taking a floral wreath he had sent from the casket tore it to pleces and threw away the flowers. Mrs. Seims is thought to be dying of gref.

prophet has arisen among the negroes, in the person of Jerry White. prophet has arisen among the negroes, in the person of Jerry White.

Jerry is about 40 years old. He came into Athens yesterday afternoon from Oglethorpe County, where he has been promulgating his doctrines. He claims to be a prophet of God, and says that he holds direct communion with God. He says that six years ago God wound him up, just like a man would wind up a clock, and sent him out to reveal his doctrines in the States of Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas. He says that he is about run down now, and that his work is nearly at an end.

The cardinal doctrine of this eccentric man is that the world is coming to an end, and that before August if will pass away. In conformity to these ideas, he has been advising all to quit their work and get to praying for salvation. He tells them that it will do them no good to plow or sow or work crops now, for ere the harvest comes the end of the world will be at hand. Jerry claims to have been purged of all sin for fasting forty-five days.

The negroes of this section pay little stemation to his vagaries, but in some sections of Oglethorpe County, where he has been, they have left their work, and can hardly be persuaded to take it up again.

TELEPHONE EXTORTION.

stop to the extortion of the telephone monopoly before it adjourns.

In St. Louis the worst service is given at highest rates and it seems to be impossible to bring the company to any terms not satisfactory to the monopolists themselves or make them understand that the government has power to regulate corporations and protect citizens from their oppression.

In New York an attempt is being made to prevent extortion and fix the charges at reasonable rates which shall insure a fair return upon the actual investment, but which leave nothing for interest and dividends on wind and water. These rates are not to be raised except upon plain proof that they are too low to accomplish this result. If at any time the company desires to furnish this proof by opening the books and demonstrating that the actual investment and not flat capital is suffering, it can expect relief, but not otherwise. There is strong hope that this bill will pass.

The American Bell Telephone Co. is capitalized at $50,000,000. How much of knows, but it is well understood that the actual profits are several hundred per cent on the real capital. THE REAL ISSUE.

When Thomas Jefferson declared that anks are more dangerous than a standng army, he did not mean to attack the egitimate business of banking, as some ppose. He approved and encouraged egitimate banking as one of the great conveniences of civilization. He was onvinced, however, that business could not remain prosperous nor values stable while corporations or individuals were allowed by Government to impose the certificates of their indebtedness on the public as a circulating medium.

The distingushing character of Jeffer son's mind was common sense. He knew that a dollar of debt is a hundred cents less than a dollar of cash, and he saw that the use of the finest silk paper and the most ornamental engraving a bank not prevent it from being at once added to the total outstanding debt of the bush ness world. He saw that every dollar of such an increase in debt threatened busi-ness, and he predicted that there would be a readjustment of values accompanied by convulsion every twenty or thirty years as long as corporation credit paper allowed to circulate as cash.

Such considerations made Jefferson ar advocate of a cash currency as opposed to one of private bank notes. He though it foolish and dangerous to surrender the overeign power of issuing money to private individuals or to corporations. His views are not antiquated. The issue ow is not between the use of gold and silver as money, but between a currency of private debt put in circulation on government paper with a quasi indorsemen from the Government, constituting in fact a loan of the Government creditbetween that currency representing less than zero and a currency of cash issued from the public mints and representing hundred cents to the dollar.

It is only through a currency of cash that we can have business stability. A credit currency means a panic every ten r fifteen years. Every dollar of corpora tion debt that the Government allows to irculate as cash is a panic producer.

The issue is between such panic pro lucers on the one hand and the money of the mints on the other. There is no other issue in our finances now. There will be no other in the next campaign The question every business man, every worker, every farmer, every American nterested in the prosperity of his country must answer, is: "Are you for or against the use of cash as money?"

A PARTISAN DODGE.

The Republican majority in the lowe branch of the State Legislature cannot evade the issue raised by Representative Davidson in the matter of investigating the Ziegenhein administration of the Collector's office.

The plea offered by the Republican nembers of the investigating committee and echoed by all the Republicans of the House is that the dramshop license abuses belong to the past and are not proper subjects of investigation now. It is a new thing to have a refusal to investigat official corruption justified on the ground that the corruption is an old story; but granting this preposterous plea, the committee had living material for investigation in the abuses existing in the mer chants' license department of the Collector's office. The conditions in this department are the same which brought about the corruption and crookedness in the collection of dramshop licenses. The Collector asesses and collects the merchants' licenses without check. The abuses in this de partment have been notorious. The mys terious disappearance of that check for $4,102 occurred in the merchants' license branch. No investigation of this depart ment has ever been made, although it is known that licenses of all kinds have been the subject of deals, pulls and crook-

The welfare of the State and city and justice to the merchants demand that these abuses be exposed and that a reform similar to that accomplished in the collection of dramshop licenses be brought about. A check on the Collector in the collection of merchants' licenses is needed as badly as it was needed in the collection of dramshop licenses. The only good the committee could do the people of St. Louis was to show this need and recommend legislation which would remedy the evil. In refusing to go into these abuses and recommend a measure of relief the Republicans show that the investigation was a partisan dodge engineered by bosses who have reason to fear an honest inquiry and who do not want reform.

From all sides in these "fin de siecle" days the cry of the neurotic is heard proclaiming this to be a time of deca dence and bewailing loss of vitality and increase in nervous excitability in the human race. So persistent is this cry that many people are beginning to imagine that they believe it.

They talk of the world as though it were a hospital for incurables, and of civilization as though it were destroying the human being that it has for centuries been so carefully differentiating from the brute. Not to have weak and excitable nerves, or not to be threatened with nervous prostration, is a sure sign that one is uncultured and not fit to live with the elegant type of decadence. As for genius, that is considered as nothing but the

Meanwhile the daily evening edition of the Post-Dispatch has undergone a transformation which makes it at once the largest, liveliest and most enterprising evening paper in this country, giving all the news daily, and a large proportion of t in advance of the morning journals.

And it should be remembered that subscribers to the Post-Dispatch are supplied the Evening and Sunday edition regularly for 10 cents a week. Cheapness is one of the demands of the times and this paper is remarkably cheap in price, while at the same time extraordinarily valuable in all that goes to make a first-class, up-to-date modern daily newspaper.

The Post-Dispatch is, therefore, the best as well as the cheapest.

The news that the two branches of the State Legislature are showing a spirit of sion on the subject of St. Louis judicial legislation is gratifying. The Sen ate and House are near enough together to reach a satisfactory conclusion. But no compromise which fails to merge the Criminal Court with the Circuit Court will be satisfactory. Although St. Louis now has an excellent Judge of the Criminal Court, this has not always been the case, and there is no guarantee under the present system that our experience in the future will differ from that of the past. The only way to assure good criminal judges is to make the circuit judges hear criminal cases. This is an essential feature of judiciary reform for St. Louis.

The refusal of the Senate to take up the railroad pooling bill by the decisive vote of 42 to 24 was a good conclusion to the attempt to foist on the country a monster railroad trust. It was far better for the Senate to give an affirmative condemna tion of a job of this kind than to let it die on the calendar. In that contingency is would have been an unsettled question for future determination. The majority against it was so large that the railroad lobby will not be apt to bring it up in the next Congress, unless conditions change materially for the worse.

One of the recent weddings in this city was that of a charming young couple who belong to the nouveaux riche. Much pomp belong to the nouveaux riche. Much pomp and ceremony attended the happy affair, and in that respect it was not unlike the weddings which occur frequently in St.

Even Audubon, tramping through the Western forests hunting and painting marvelous birds, expected to make some money by his ventures. It was his natural disposition which led him to such a vast undertaking, but beyond that he anticipated a small fortune for himself and family. So that the real difference between the "literary feller" real difference between the "literary feller" of other days and him or her of the present is that the new litterateur has acquired business ability and developed commercial faculty with wonderful success. LETTERS FROM THE PE

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The cry for money is heard everywher but when people got it they can't eat i drink it, wear or live in it. By exchangin it for wealth—the things which satisf man's wants and desires—they uncor sciously admit that it is wealth which commands money, and not money that commands wealth. As all wealth is and must produced from land, the store-house of nature, it is obvious that the owners of the store-house are masters of the situation.

Popular Control of Legislators

Popular Control of Legislators.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Why not abolish the United States Senate?

That body is often a serious and expensive obstacle to wise and honest legislation and is never essential to it.

Why not give voters the power to impeach and recall all Legislators at any time during their term of office by a vote of two-thirds of the number of voters who cast a vote at the time of their election?

It would make them more careful of their official conduct, especially if such impeachment disfranchised and disqualified them forever for holding any public office.

No honest patriotic man could object to accepting a "public trust" because of these conditions, and no traitor could endure them, and surely they would best serve them will of the sovereign people. Why not?

Sherman's Gold Bug Argument.

To the Editor of The Post-Dispatch.

From an extended report of the speech of John Sherman, made in the Senate on the 18th inst., two remarkable facts ap-

First. While occupying a seat in the Sen-ate and drawing his pay from the Treas-ury of the people, his argument from first to last is the plea of an attorney for the bondholders. ury of the people, his argument from the bondholders.

Second. He affirms that it would be dishonorable for the Government to exercise an option, which it clearly holds in defense of the taxpayers of the country.

Notwithstanding the law under which the bonds were issued anys "Coin," he says we demanded gold. This is not true, We demanded coin, and when gold coin was offered we accepted it. Those who purchased the bonds exercised their option and offered the cheaper metal, silver at that time being 3 per cent hisper than gold. Sherman says we demanded the gold. Why did we demand the gold in preference to silver when silver was the more valuable? Mr. Sherman's zeal as an attorney has clearly led him into prevarication. Now, it is the right of the Government, by the express terms printed in the face of the bonds, to pay them in the coin of the United States, of July 12, 1870. That coin consisted of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. Suppose any individual had such a contract with such an option, would he becalled dishonorable for exercising his onfion?

Furthermore, the bondholder, if paid in silver coin to-day, could buy as much of the commodities of the country as if paid in gold coin. He is not harmed. He gets a much more valuable dollar than he gave. Even the bullion in a silver dollar will buy more of the commodities of the country to-day than a gold dollar was worth at the time we sold the bonds in 1870.

The Ciby Water.

To the Editor of the Fost-Dispatch.

I think Water Commissioner Holman is "real mean" to say that our city water is not as good as it seems to be, and that now the river is frozen over from the mountains down its bed is "little more than a sewer." Mr. Holman must have swallowed a pollywog some time last summer that is eating at his vitals and making him say cruel things of St. Louis. For my part I refuse to follow the scientists so far as to distrust my eyes and nose and tongue and to look upon clear water as usually more suspicious than what is muddy. I say St. Louis water is pretty good now, sewer or no sewer. If they get to calling the Father of Waters a sewer, the millionaires will grab it by and by. Sewer, indeed!

Street Railway Franchises.

to the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: The contest between Dr. Marks and the You are quite right to urge that no franchise be granted a new railway company without a percentage of the gross receipts. But why not go further and adopt the method in vogue in England and elsewhere of compelling these corporations to sell out to the city at a reasonable valuation after a certain period? This is the only way to solve the labor problem, as far as it concerns such public services. There will be strikes, stock watering and illegal acts perpetrated as long as such services are in private hands. The very fact that the lines are compelled to pay this percentage to the public treasury will be given as an excuse for not paying living wages.

senate with an amendment and these sent to the House, where the members could wrestle with it and the Spencer bill together.

Senator Lancaster's bill provides for the appointment of three additional Circuit Judges, Héasisc has another bill before the Senate providing for the appointment of an additional Criminal Judge. These bills were framed by Charles B. Stark. Representative Spencer's bill was drafted by a committee of the Bar Association. It provides for three additional Circuit Judges, one to be assigned to the Criminal Court and also attpulates that the three, together with the present five Circuit Judges and the Judge of the Criminal Court; form a body of nine to rotate in office. That is, after Jan. 1, 1897, two of the nine to be assigned to the criminal courts and that the first two be replaced at intervals with others, all the Circuit Judges taking turns on the Criminal bench.

The lawyers explained yesterday that the Circuit Judges taking turns on the Criminal bench.

The lawyers explained yesterday that the only objection they had to Lancaster's bill was that it did not provide for rotation in office. He said he would agree to amend the bill to this effect and if he does Senator Klene, who led the opposition to it, will vote for its passage.

If that bill passes the Senate and goes to the House either that or the Spencer bill will surely be passed. Mr. Spencer said that he thought it more likely that the Bar Association bill would pass the House, as it provided for one less Judge than the Lancaster bill, and the "watch dogs of the treasury," from the counties in the far corner of the State, would be more likely to vote for it.

THEY ARE ALL FRESHMEN.

Students of the Upper Class Are Supposed to Have Taken

Them Away.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.
CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 22.—There is trouble in State University circles to-night. For several years the holding of a Freshmen's social has been productive of trouble until last year, when the Freshmen and men's social has been productive of trouble until last year, when the Freshmen and upper class men met and buried the hatchet. It was supposed until to-day that the Freshmen's social, which was held in Library Hall to-night, would be peaceful, in fact, it was advertised in the daily papers and contrary to the custom that had prevalled in past years, no secret was made of the place nor arrangements. But now President Reinhart of the Freshman class and Messrs. Twyman and Shamet, the two principal toast-makers of the evening, are missing, and though Freshman rescuing parties have been on the hunt all day, at a late hour this evening the missing Freshmen could not be located.

At an early hour this morning, President Reinhart, who takes his meals at a boarding house several doors from his room, was going to his breakfast, when in front of the Burnham Hospital he was overhauled by a party of upper class men and spirited away. According to a bystander, Reinhart and a companion put up a good fight, but were everpowered by numbers.

At this time a carriage, drawn by a bay team, was driven rapidly to the scone. Reinhart was bundled in the carriage, his assailants jumping in after him. The driver gave whip to the horses, taking the party Reinhart was bundled in the carriage, his assailants jumping in after him. The driver gave whip to the horses, taking the party away in a westerly direction at a breakneck gait. Another party who saw the affair said the upper class men had a rope with them and when they saw they could not handle Reinhart without, they bound his arms and legs and drove away with him. Reinhart's companion was badly used up in the fight. He claims to have recognized all the members of the kidnapping party, and that he went before President Draper this forenoon disclosing their names. The students in general are of the opinion that the young men will be dealt with severely at the hands of the officials of the institution. It is also said that the occurrence will be brought to the attention of State's Attorney Smyres, and may prove a very serious matter to them. Twyman and Shamet have also been spirited away and are supposed to be in an old house a short distance from the city bound so they cannot escape. The social passed off quietly to-night and as outlined in the programme, barring the absence of the president and the two principal toast-masters.

raising of the price for New York exchange is being mailed by St. Louis banks to their customers. It states that on and after March I, St, Louis business men will pay 50 cents per $1,000 for their New York exchange. This increase is due to the fact, according to the cashiers of St. Louis banks, that the banks have been losing money on the old rates, and by accommodating their customers. They also cite the fact that express companies have raised their money shipment rates. A charge of 1-10 to 4p per cent per $1,000 will be charged on all out of town checks deposited. Prices for collection will be 15 cents and the charges of the banks remitting the same. Household Goods. GEO. J. FRITSCH

ONLY THREE DAYS OF REAL WORK

The Illinois Legislature Finds Much Time for Idling.

MOST IMPORTANT MEASURES.

Bills Passed During the Session by Both Houses of the Arkansas Assembly.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 23.—The Legislature was in session practically only three days this week. Washington's Birthday gave the Legislature a holiday. It is a legal holiday, and the law-makers ecrupulously avoid working on such days. The sessions Monday and to-day (Saturday) were only nominal, no business being transacted in Several important measures were introduced during the week. One of them was by Representative Berry, a measure suggested by the Ramsay defalcation. It makes it unlawful for any officer or other person having the custody of any State, County, municipal or other public money to deposit the same with any private bank or with any individual, or to loan such public money to any private bank or individual, Such officers are also prohibited from borrowing or using the funds themselves. The penalty is imprisonment in the penitentiary for one to five years, a fine of $5,000, and forfeiture of office. It is also made unlawful, with like lands free to everybody for hunting purpesss.

A bill which will stir the Catholics up was introduced in the House Thursday by Mr. Merriam, a Republican member from Tazewell County. It repeals two ancient acts of the Legislature which, in substance, make the Catholic Bishop of Chicago a corporation sole for the purpose of receiving, holding and conveying real estate for religious and charitable purposes. These acts were passed in 1845 and 1861, respectively. Under their operation, so it is alleged, the Catholic Church now holds about $85,000,000 worth of real estate, most of it acquired years ago, and since increased enormously in value. ARKANSAS LEGISLATURE.

Record of Important Bills Passed This Session.

cial to The Post-Dispatch. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 23.-The Arkansas Legislature has been very busy the past week killing bills. Some of the most important measures introducd during the nt session have been defeated in one failed to receive the required number of votes in the affirmative were: House bills providing for the consolidation of elections; providing for the consolidation of elections; fixing the age of consent at eighteen years; reapportioning the public school fund so as to provide that taxes paid by colored citizens shall go to the support of colored schools; abolishing capital punishment and a bill taxing mortgages. In the Senate the bill authorizing the St. Francis Levee District Board of Commissioners to issue bonds to the amount of $600,000, also a bill prohibiting fishing on Sunday. No bill of gento the amount of $600,000, also a bill prohibiting fishing on Sunday. No bill of general interest was passed by either House.

Up to date there have been $89 bills introduced in the General Assembly—178 in the Senate and 411 in the House. Of this number seventeen have passed both Houses and have been signed by the Governor. The Legislature has been in session thirty-eight days, and, unless the session should be extended, it must adjourn on March 15, the constitutional limit to the time in which the General Assembly may hold its meeting being sixty days. It is very probable that the session will be extended thirty days. Tha following are the bills that have passed both branches of the Legislature and received gubernatorial approval, except Senate bill No. 75, which the Governor allowed to become a law without his signature:

"Long before any member of this society was acquainted with Tom Ennis he and I traveled together the sacred avenues of friendship," said the Major.

"I can scarce remember, in my own observation, to have met with a man whose presence could so quickly dissipate the gloom that so easily settles on the mind overburdened with the cares of an active life, as could Tom Ennis, His happy manner and cheery laugh must be yet fresh in the memory of everyone whose good fortune it was to come within the hymanizing influence of his disposition. No Knight of St. Patrick ever brought so large a proportion of good will and good humor to our social gathering as did he. And withal, he had a gentleness that was befitting a woman. He was never happler than when in the possession of some laudable design to spring an innocent surprise on some old friend. Alasi that so many of those dear friends have already passed from our midst."

A GOLDEN GAIN

Miss Anna Gould's Marriage Is About to Take Place.

THE HAPPY DE CASTELLANE

He Is a Member of One of the Oldest and Most Respected Families in France.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The marriage of Miss Anna Gould, daughter of the most gifted of all American money-makers, and the Count De Castellane, a member of one of the most ancient families of France, is about to take place in New York. No matnonial event in years has excited or has erved so much worldly interest.

The marriage claims the attention of every variety of newspaper reader. Some are interested in it from a social point of view, because it marks a stage in the rise of the Gould family to social eminence in New York. Others boil with patriotic indignation when they think of the large sum of American money which is about to replenish the coffers of an effete aristocratic family. Many people who have no strong feeling in the matter will be pleased to hear about the marriage because it is that of a rich American girl and a titled foreigner.

The Castellanes are Roman Catholics, and the Count could not be married without the sanction of his church. The Goulds are Presbyterians. Archishop Corrigan will perform the ceremony at noon in Mr. George Gould's house at Fifth avenue and Sixty-seventh street. The ceremony will be in the Moorish room, between the windows facing on the avenue. The Lohengrin wedding march, with an accompaniment of boys' voices, will be rendered. Miss Gould is a dark little woman with pleasing features. She is 20 years old, and has only been in society one season. She dresses quietly and in good tasks. boys' voices, will be rendered. Miss Gould is a dark little woman with pleasing features. She is 20 years old, and has only been in society one season. She dresses quietly and in good taste. She will wear a magnificent bridal dress of ivory white satin. The skirt is wide at the bottom, in a style described as flaring, and has a long train. The sleeves are of immense size, and reach to the elbow. The corsage is covered with old lace of exquisite pattern. Spangles are freely employed in the decoration of this part of the dress. The neck is high. She will wear the gifts of the groom, a diamond and ruby ring, an emerald and diamond bracelet, and a string of pearls. The bridemadis are all pretty girls. They are Miss Kittie Cameron, second daughter of Sir Roderick Cameron; Miss Helen Gould, who is a couple of years the senior of her sister; Miss Adelaide Montgomery, and Miss Beatrice Richardson. It is understood that Count Castellane drew the designs for the costumes they are to wear. The white cloth gowns are very plainly made, with skirts of the correct flaring shape. Bands of sable are the only trimming. Various young women in discussing the proposed attire of the girls, have objected to the hats. These are of black chiffon, and will give an unnecessary suggestion of mourning to their attire. The Count will undoubtedly appear in appropriate clothing, but details are not forthcoming. It is certain that a long-tailed frock coat, cut in at the waist is becoming to him, and that he ties a cravat with skill, his boots have also a smoothness seldom attained. He will have for best man his brother, Count Jean Castellane, and for groomsmen, Prince Del Drago, of Spain, now stopping at the Waldorf, Mr. Howard Gould, M. Raoul Duval, who was the Count's companion at Newport. Such a gathering of swell foreigners is uncommon even at an international wedding. Two of the ushers are titled, and M. Raoul Duval is a man of the first fashion in Paris, although he is actively engaged in calling attention to the merits of certain brands a man of the first fashion in Paris, although he is actively engaged in calling attention to the merits of certain brands of wine.

Marquis and Marquise Castellane and the Count, a younger brother of the groomelect. are due in New York to-morrow. Immediately after the wedding the couple will sail for Europe. After arriving there they will stop a few days in London. Then they will sop a few days in London. Then they will sop to Paris and look for a pleasant home. Miss Gould speaks French, which will conduce to her comfort in a society where only that language is spoken.

THE IOWA BOODLERS.

Sensational Testimony in the Woodbury County Cases.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Feb. 23.—The biggest sensation in the history of the Woodbury County boodling cases, came to light today in connection with the case of Supervisor Strange, on trial in the Circuit Court. Charles M. Perry, a blacksmith, made a swern confession to the State's attorney that he is the clusive "John Perry," and that Strange's foreman of that name never existed. Perry swears he is the man who signed the "John Perry" orders to the County Auditor for $1,500 warrants to Strange for which no work for the county was ever done. It is thought a large sum was secured in this manner from the county.

ANGRY JAPANESE.

Disappointed at China's Treatment of Their Envoys.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 23.-The SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 22.—The steamer Gaelic arrived to-day from Yokohama and brought Japanese advices up to Feb. 6. The Japanese are greatly disappointed at the failure of the Chinese Government to give its envoys proper power to negotiate for peace.

It is reported that Mr. Foster's annoyance was so great that an open quarrel took place between him and his clients. If China desires to promptly renew her application no obstacle will be put in her way.

THREE BILLS VETOED.

Returned to Congress Without Presidential Approval.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.—The President to-day sent to Congress three veto messages. One vetoed a House bill to indorporate the Society of American Florists. The second authorized the Kaisas City, Oklahoma & Pacific Railway Co. to construct and operate a railway through the Indian reservations in the Indian Territory and the Territories of Oklahoma and New Mexico. The third granted a pension to Hiram R. Rhea, whose name, the President says, was removed from the pension rolls after he had fraudulently received a pension for nearly twenty-two years.

New Pacific Roads Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23—Chairman
Reilly to-day reported to the House the bill recently agreed to by the committee regarding the Pacific Railroad debt. In the ludgment of the committee the new bill absolutely secures every dollar to the government against the commanies, yet the feature of it that most commends itself is that the Treasury will be relieved from the recessity of paying out the large sum necessary to discharge the subsidy bonds at maturity.

Kepresentative Boatner submitted a minority report heartily concurring in the

PENN HEIRS.

FOR NOBLE BLOOD, Legal Fight Probable Over the Big Still Curing the Sick by Hundreds Pennsylvania Estate.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

WILKESBARRE, Pa. Tab. 2.—There is every prospect of a legal and between two of the descendants of William Penn in regard to their right to property left by him to his family. The Penn estate, which includes large tracts of land near here, near Westchester, in Easton and other parts of the State, is estimated to be worth over $1,-00,000. Some months ago Wm. Stuart of the Isle of Wight came here, and after some legal proceedings was granted writs of ejectment against several persons occupying part of the land he claims. He was successful also at Easton. Now, however, another claimant comes forward in the person of Reverdy Davis of Washington, D. C. He has written to Attorney Powell of this city stating his case. He asks if Stuart claims the property came to him through his wife, who died in Maryland in 1873, or if the estate was settled on him by the court or Government of England after the death of his wife, whose name before marriage was Charlotte Penn. "My mother's name," he declares, "was Charlotte Penn, daughter of John Penn, who died in Baltimore County in 1739, leaving a large tract of land to his children. The property was kept in the possession of the family until 184, when by the death of the parents it got out of possession of the property til her death in 1873. She was married three times. Her last husband was Mr. Stuart, who she married in 1873.

and she had no children by Stuart. In 1867 spapers of the property in Maryland, also a fridavits showing that she was one of the Penn amily. When she returned they told the that they had an interview with the officials in London which was in regard to her being one of the helrs of William Penn. They informed her that by the papers she possessed they were inclined to in think she was a legal heir, but that they would investigate and let her know later on, and they showed me letters they received from the exchequer office in London informed them that at that time the only their was John G. Penn, living in Ireland, and that after his death there were no heirs but my mother would be the following heir. When my mother died, Stuart took possession and kept all papers. I made several attempts to get them from him, but did not succeed. He left the country for some foreign place, then returned, but I did not succeed. He left the country for some foreign place, then returned, but I did not see him. About 1878 I visited my aunt, and she told me that Stuart had come to see her and that he was, in great glee, saying he had received valuable papers from London and that thousands of dollars could not buy them. She questioned him, and his reply was that they were his by the rights of a deceased wife, and that no one should know what the contents were. I never heard of him since until a few days ago, when I saw a card in a paper copied from a Philadelphis paper, stating that William Stuart, from the Isle of Wight, was looking after a square of ground in Easton, laying clam that the ground belonged to the estate of William Penn, and that he was an heir and that he property, and the circumstances of the case are such that I believe this man, Col. William Penn have been settled by the courts of England in reference to my mother's claim, and I am the rightful heir to the property, and the circumstances of the case are such that I believe this man, Col. Claimed the Blair and Benton Bills Are Held Up.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 23.—A sto JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 22.—A storm cloud is gathering in the House Committee on Appropriations. When it breaks out the members will be divided upon other than party lines. About three weeks ago a joint and concurrent resolution was introduced in the House by Maj. Bittinger providing for the creation of a commission by the Governor to have charge of the execution of life-size statues of Thomas H. Benton and Frank P. Blair, to be placed in the gallery of statues in Washington. The resolution proposed the expenditure of $12,-200 for these statues and was referred to a committee. Maj. Bittinger made several attempts to have the resolution given consideration, but Chairman Tatum and Dr. Tubbs always put him off. One evening a few days ago, a quorum of the committee being present, Representative Armstrong of Henry wanted Chairman Tatum to take the Bittinger resolution up for action. Tatum demurred, stating that there were other members whom he (Tatum) desired to have present.

Henry wanted Chairman Tatum to take the Bittinger resolution up for action. Tatum demurred, stating that there were other members whom he (Tatum) desired to have present.

Mr. Armstrong called the chairman's attention to the presence of il of a total of is members of the committee. Mr. Tatum refused to give any other explanation than that the members whom he desired to have present were not in attendance. Mr. Davidson asked Chairman Tatum whether it were not true that he had been ordered by Chauncey I. Filley not to give the resolution favorable consideration. Mr. Tatum denied that this was the case, and then Mr. Davidson changed the form of his address, and told Mr. Tatum that he knew as a fact that Filley had ordered the resolution held up. Mr. Davidson added that Filley expected to be United States Senator from Missourl, and that he did not want to discharge the duty of placing the statues of two such distinguished Democrats in the Gallery of Statues, and that this was the whole secret of Tatum's opposition to the present consideration of the resolution. The only answer Tatum would make to this was, "I decline to consider this resolution now, subject to the call of the chair." There were seven members of the committee present, ready to vote for a favorable recommendation of the resolution to the House, and Mr. Tatum knew this.

The members referred to are: Davidson, Armstrong, Crisp, Lynch, and Mertimer, Democrats; and H. Hammand, and Denny, Republicans; and it is reported by members of the committee would have elected a new chairman and gone ahead with consideration of the bill. Since then, it is said, Representative Swanger has consented to serve, the committee would have consented to serve, the committee would have consented to serve, the committee would have consented to serve the committee would have consented to serve the committee would have becade a new chairman and gone ahead with consideration of the bill. Voice From Far-Off Texas Adds His Testimony to the Long List of Cures.

Probably no cure that was ever made in recent years created such intense excitement, wonder and bewilderment as that of James H. Hosack, Jr., son of Capt. Hosack, the well-known real estate agent of Texas. Because of his prominence and popularity, not only in Texas, but in Missouri, where he was so well known for years, as not being able to take a step without his crutches, the following letter is published by his request, in hopes that some poor sufferer may be restored to health and happiness as ne was.

The following cure was effected by Dr. Temples treatment.

Temple on Feb. 23d, 1894, one year ago to-day, and he has remained well ever since, which shows the permanency of Dr. Temple's treatment.

Dr. Franklin Stuart Temple:

DEAR SIR—I feel it my duty to give you some evidence of my gratitude for the wonderful cure you have performed on me, and I can truthfully say that without the aid of you and your great power I would still be on crutches—whee I was for nearly four years. Since your first treatment Feb. 13, 1894. I have never used my crutches at all, nor have I been deterred from attending to my business for even a moment. A NOTABLE ST. LOUIS WEDDING.

Marriage of H. Townsend-Martin and Camilla S. Thompson.

CEREMONY IN CHRIST CHURCH

A Brilliant Social Event at Which All the Elite of St. Louis Were Present.

Christ Church Cathedral was thronged Christ Church Cathedrai was thronged last evening to witness the ceremony uniting Miss Camilla S. Thompson of St. Louis in marriage to Mr. Howard Townsend-Martin of New York.

Long before the hour set for the wedding the crowd gathered about the front and sides of the Cathedral, and surrounded the awning so thickly that the invited guests, who also commenced arriving two hours who also commenced arriving two hours before 6 o'clock, could not enter the church until the police interposed in their behalf. Promptly at 6 o'clock the carriages containing the bridal party drove up, the horses in white herness and the drivers in white livery with ribbon favors on their whips. Outside the old-fashloned Cathedral looked gloomy, but within it was a bower of beauty. Every pew was decked with a bunch of Easter lilles, tied with a bow of white satin ribbons. The altar was burdened with a profusion of palms.

THE CEREMONY.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, Wm. B. Thompson, clad in a beautiful wedding robe of duchesse satin, her veil caught with an aigrette of diamonds and carrying in her hand a white lvory-bound prayer book.

Her maid of honor, her sister, Miss Grace carrying in her hand a white ivory-bound prayer book.

Her madd of honor, her sister, Miss Grace Thompson, followed. She wore a pretty kreation of white satin, made dancing length, the bodice cut square in the neck and crossed with two long chiffon scarfs. The sleeves, made of large jabots of chiffon, were caught on the shoulders with large white satin bows. She carried white orchids.

white satin bows. She carried white orchids.

White-robed choirsters, chanting the bridal chorus and bearing the cross, met the bridal procession at the entrance door, and,
turning, went back down the opposite aisle.
Just before the bride reached the altar, as she passed the pew containing her family,
she stooped and k'ssed her mother.

The groom, with his best man, his brother,
Mr. Frederick Townsend-Martin, met the bride at the altar, and there the venerable Dean Montgomery Schuyler performed the overemony.

Dean Montgomery Schuyler performed the ceremony.

The same conduct was noted on the part of the ladies who attended this wedding, which occasioned such comment at a prominent funeral a week or two ago. After they left the church there was hardly a bow of ribbon or Easter lily left of the thousands which had made the interior of the cathedral so lovely and fragrant a few hours before.

UNCLE STEPHENS.

As He Is Going to Be a Congres

Wants to Start Straight.

From the Washington Post.

It is thought that the majority of the recently elected Congressional delegation from Ohio will come to Washington within a week or two to take a survey of the situation, look at the two Houses in session, and "pick out their seats." This is always one of the prime objects of newly-elected Congressmen in coming to Washington, more particularly, however, on the part of those who were never before in Washington, as happens to be the case here. Among the delegation is "Uncle Stephens," from the Sandusky district. He is not a statesman of broad experience, but his constituents expect much of him. He is a physician, but is willing to give up his practice to serve his people in the halls of Congress. That he is popular was evidenced by the fact that he had something like 6,000 Democratic majority to overcome to be elected, which he overcame successfully.

"Are you coming to Washington before Congress addentage" was what one of the

which he overcame successfully.

"Are you coming to Washington before Congress adjourns?" was what one of the Ohio men who spends much of his time at the capital asked him recently at home.

"Oh, yes, indeed," he repiled. "I've got to be there to take the oath of office."

"You don't have to take the oath of office until Congress meets in December, 1896, a year from now," said the Ohioan. "In fact, you can't take it until the new Congress assembles."

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 22.—The experts appointed by the Bureau of the Navy Department to examine the plans submitted for the construction of three new torpedo boats are busily engaged in that work. It can be stated on the authority of a prominent member of Congress, who is believed to have the confidence of Mr. Kearns, the Collector of Internal Revenue at Pittsburg, that he will be removed within the next few days and his successor will be appointed. Mr. Kearns was charged with gross violations of the civil service law, in assessing his clerks for political purposes. Authority has been given to Marville W. Cooper and his associates to reorganise the Standard National Bank of New York City. The clerks appointed by Secretaries Carlisie and Smith to examine the papers and accounts bearing upon the respective claims of the Government and the State of Arkansas against each other have completed their report. It is understood that it was found that the State's indebtedness to the Government after deducting all allowed counter-claims was about $186,000.

SHOTS AND WOMAN'S SCREAMS

Cause Arrests and Reveal a Queer Love Story.

A young man, giving his name as E. Balley Brown, the son of M. C. Brown, at one time a prominent real estate dealer in East St. Louis, was arrested, together with his companion, Cora Stone, at Hotel Pearl, Thirteenth and Pine streets, early yester-day morning. Officer Hickey hearing sounds Thirteenth and Pine streets, early yesterday morning. Officer Hickey hearing sounds as if of pistol shots and woman's screams, hastened to the hotel and ran up to the second floor. There he met a woman clad in a night robe running about and calling for someone to go upstairs and get her jewelry, as "he" had tried to kill her. The person referred to proved to be a youth in a night shirt, occupying a third-floor room. Although the furniture in the room was topsy-tury, he declared to the officer that there was nothing the matter. But the woman accused him of firing two shots at her, and the policeman made both of them dress and go with him to the Four Courts. When their case was called in the First District Police Court yesterday morning they walked in arm-in-arm, and Ashley Clover, as Acting City Attorney, dismissed the charges on payment of costs. The couple returned at once to the Hotel Fearl. Brown is not over 22 years and the woman is about in It developed that Brown has been calling her his wife for some time. Ten days ago he registered with her at the Southern Hotel as E. B. Brown and wife. The next morning at 4 o'clock she left in a cab, and Brown explained to the clerk that she had returned to her relatives because he got drugh. He then paid his bill and departed.

QUIET POLITICAL MEETING.

Iwenty-Seventh Ward Republicans Elect Their Convention Delegates.

The Republicans of the Twenty-seventh Ward held a stormy meeting at the Tower Grove Hotel Friday evening. It is said that the arguments of the opposing factions came to blows and that deadly weapons were drawn. The proprietor of the house was compelled to call in the police to restore order. Amid much clamor John G. Joyce, the surveyor, was elected chairman. The hottest part of the meeting, however, was in the election of a delegate to the city convention, and during this row knives were drawn. During the pandemonium Wm. Daman was declared elected. After this the opposing faction elected Robert Lindsay and as it now stands the ward has two delegates to the convention.

HE WILL BE TRIED.

The Exchange Directors to Prefer Charges Against Alex Smith.

For placing a dunce-cap on the head of President Thomas Booth, of the Merchants' Exchange, ex-President Alex. Smith is to be tried by the Board of Directors. If found guilty of—nobody knows just exactly what, he is to be disciplined.

The facts in connection with the case are familiar to the entire city. In a spirit of fun, and brimming over with hilarity—for Alex. is always, brimful of good spirits—Mr. Smith placed a paper dunce-cap covered with alleged obnoxious inscriptions, on President Thomas Booth's head. Enraged, the president dashed the cap to the floor. Seeing he had offended the President Mr. Smith hastily apologized. President Booth Smith hastily apologized. President Booth and the Exchange in a huff.

Then a directors' meeting was hastily called. President Booth appeared before it and demanded, not only an apology from Mr. Smith, but also that Mr. Smith's picture, which graces the frame of the expression, and he firends. As it is we do not speak as we pass by. That is, he don't and I not reply."

"It is announced, Mr. Smith," said the reporter, "that you are to be tried. Can you you are to be tried. Can you you have the president and demanded.

THREE MEN

Outcome of a Battle Between the Smith and Cox Factions.

FIERCE KENTUCKY FAMILIES.

A Fourth Man Mortally Wounded in the Bloody Fight Near Osborn Gap.

SERGEANT, Ky., Feb. 23.—According to reports just received here, three men were shot to death and a fourth mortally wounded in a fight between the Smith-Cox factions, near Osborn Gap, Dickinson County, Va., on Wednesday afternoon last. The men involved in the difficulty had long been regarded as terrors in the neighbor-hood in which they resided and for years the families had been deadly enemies. Ac-cording to the best information obtainable, Robert and Sam Smith had been at the Gar nd were on their way home when they met Ben and Lem Cox on the road, about two miles from town. All four were under the ce of liquor and were literally boil-influence of liquor and were literally bolling for a fight.

The Smiths, it is said, drew their revolvers first and commanded their enemies ito surrender. Instead, the Cox boys jerked out their weapons and then a general fight was begun. The battle, it is said, lasted for nearly half an hour, and when the smoke cleared away Robert and Sam Smith and Ben Cox were found lying dead on the road, while Lem Cox is so badly wounded that his death is expected hourly.

The killing of the men, if subsequent accounts bear out the report in full, puts an end to the two families that had long been prominent in criminal circles in this section of the country.

There were originally eight Smith boys, and all of them met their death in fights similar to the one of Wednesday.

Other Cox boys were also killed several years ago in a battle between men of their stamp. Ben Cox enjoyed the reputation of having killed five men and his brother Lem had twice been tried for murder. They all reside back in the mountains and were regarded as very dangerous men, a reputation to which they were certainly entitled.

GOULD KIDNAPPERS.

They Have Been Engaged in Their Attempt Since 1876.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.-Detective M. F. Leech, a well known and most successful esperado hunter of the West, is staying at the Astor House. He was laid up for over year, suffering from injuries received in a railroad accident.

In talking about the recent supposed at tempt to kidnap little Kingdon Gould, he aid yesterday to a Post-Dispatch corre-

said yesterday to a Fost-Dispatch correspondent:

If the woman in Lakewood actually saw two such men as she describes, plotting about the Gould children, I expect to find that the survivors of the old Luke Short gang—Frank Howard and Frank McKinney—have come back to carry out a scheme that has been in their heads for years. I don't knew how many times they have attempted to kidnap a Gould, but I have learned at various times of four attempts.

"In 1876 I was in the employ of the Union Pacific Railroad as a detective, with headquarters at Ogaliala, Neb. We had a good deal of trouble in those days with train robbers, road agents who held up stage coaches and horse and cattle thieves.
"I think it was in July, 1876, that Jay Gould came to Ogaliala in his private car to inspect the cattle of Keith & Barton. With him was Sydney Dillon, Guy C. Barton, M. C. Keith and Supt. J. T. Clark of the Union Pacific. Mr. Clark can corroborate my statement.
"About an hour before the Gould train ar-statement.

"About an hour before the Gould train arrived. I was informed by a little fellow named Frenchy, who stood in with the toughs, that a band of men had organized for the purpose of kidnapping Jay Gould. "Igottogether aposse and locked the gang up, and kept them locked up till after Mr. Gould left. He was in Ogalials about four hours. At the request of Supt. Clark we kept the matter quiet, as he was afraid if Gould heard of it he would be backward about continuing his journey.

WORKS OF ART ON EXHIBITION.

Russell Spaulding of New York Here With Masterpieces

Russell Spaulding, the New York manager for Messre. Durand-Ruel, picture dealers of Fifth avenue, New York, and of Paris, is in the city with a small but well selected co lection of paintings by some of the best known artists. The collection embraces works of Hogarth, Gaiasborough, Thomas Lawrence, Jules Dapre, Daubigny, Corot and others. None of them are the masterpieces of the artists represented in the collection, but the two pieces from Corot and one by John Constable, known as Hampstead Heath are among the best works of those painters. There is also a very good thing by Diar, a scene in the center of the woods and an exceptionally fine bit by P. J. Cleys, portraying a water scene off the coast of Holland.

The collection is on exhibition in room 717 Planter's Hotel where it may be seen from 8 until 6 p. m., up to and including March I. ection of paintings by some of the best

BLUE COATS IN CHURCH.

Not as Sons of Benjamin, But as Preservers of Peace.

The Synagogue of the Sons of Benjam is in an awful stew. Harmony has taken wings and flown away, and in its place angry discord reigns. A factional fight is raging among the members of the congregation police protection has even been asked and granted. Ordinarily when a church rumpus coes so far as to make police interventie necessary an ecclesiastical explosion is likely; but in this case, there is more sound than necessary an ecclesion test and than anything else.

The Synagogue of the Sons of Benjamin is one of those little Hebrew places of worship which abound near Seventh and Carr streets. It is situated way up in the top story of a tenement building in the rear of 1006 North Seventh street, a plain, bleak looking place with the pulpit in the center and low, hard benches ranged about. Its President is A. Biermann and he is the individual who seems to fear that there is going to be trouble. The disturbance dates back to a day six weeks ago when an election for officers of the congregation was held. These positions pay salaries, and are, therefore, not to be sneezed at. During this election the fighting blood of the factions was aroused and Capt. Joyce, whose station is just across the street, was asked to send over a policeman to quell the riot.

The leader of the opposition is B. Weismann, who lives at 1010 North Seventh street, and President Biermann set himself to get even. He discovered that Weismann owed $12 pew rent and he fixed up a job whereby Weisemann and some of his friends who were also a little in arrears were dropped from the roils. There is an old rule granting Weisemann and some of his friends who were also a little in arrears were dropped from the rolls. There is an old rule granting this power in the archives of the Synagogue. The rule was remembered, but that fact did not keep those who were affected from howling. They howled so loud that they scared President Biermann and yesterday he asked Chief. Harrigan for two police officers to attend the meeting of the congregation which is to be held at 6 o'clock this evening to take final action on the dropping of the members.

UNITED STATES TRIBUNAL IN MEXICO Depositions Taken There in a Case Pend-The case of Benezette Williams et al. vs.

the Chicago, Santa Fe & California Railroad Company now pending on reference to F. L. Schofield of Hannibal, Mo., has some features about it which render it very remarkable. Perhaps the most notable features. ture resulted from a desire on the part of the defendants to take the testimony of B. F. Booker, who at the time the work over which the dispute arose was done, was assistant chief engineer for the railroad company. Mr. Benker was in the City of Mexico, dying of consumption. In order to take his testimony it was agreed that the referee, Mr. F. L. Schofield, and the attorneys, together with the stenographer, should go to the City of Mexico and take Mr. Booker's deposition. This was accordingly done, in a special car furnished by the Atchison company. It was the first instance, and likely to be the last, of an American court sitting in Mexico. About five days was spent in taking his deposition. The singularity of the proceeding attracted a good dead of attention in Mexico. The citizens were very hospitable to the parties, and the American Consul, Mr. Crittenden, showed them every attention. Mr. George A. Mahan of Hannibal, Mo., opened the argument for the plaintiff in a three days' speech. He was followed by Capt. Ben Ell Gutnfe of Macon, Mo., in an argument of five days. Mr. Gardiner Lathrop of Kansac City closed for the defendants in an argument of four days. The case was closed for the plaintiffs by Mr. J. E. McKeighan of St. Louis in an argument of five days ending on the 22d. The referee should certainly have come to a clear understanding of the case.

The case involves at the present time F. Booker, who at the time the work over should certainly have come to a clear understanding of the case.

The case involves at the present time about $300,000. One of the big questions in the case is whether the maternal found in the cuts on the forty miles of road involved was hard-pan or not. If it was hard-pan, the plaintiffs would be entitled to fifty cents per cubic yard. If it was earth, only sixteen cents. This item alone involves $115,000.

St. Louis Lithographers Still in the Lead. The Wm. Barr Dry Goods Co.'s Spring Fashion Plate Catalogue for '95 is being lithographed, engraved and printed by W. E. Stephens & Co., 716 Locust street. The plates, which comprise an emporium of fashion, have been submitted, approved and complimented; and the work, which conumes nearly three car loads of paper, and contains about 3,000 illustrations, and requires nearly 1,000,000 impressions, is now rapa'ly passing through the presses. Mr. W. E. Stephens' special adaptability to the lithographing business, and his wide range of experience, together with his efficient asoclates, are proving themselves all that can be required to illustrate the flying feathered hats, the high-puffed sleeves, the ele-gant gowns and flounced skirts, and endess variety of articles always to be found

WE INTRODUCE

To your favorable notice our "Salon of Fine Art," not generally known to the citizens of St. Louis, but now about to become one of the attractive features of our popular establishment, to which we cordially invite youboth ladies and gentlemen, and all lovers and connoisseurs of art. Am the many grand paintings on exhibition we mention particularly

"The Consequence of Vice,"

from the brush of the celebrated Italian artist, Prof. Cav. Napoleone Nanl of Verona, Italy.

Cooper and other distinguished artists have added their masterpieces to our salon. Among the famous subjects are: "The Story of the Evil Spirit," the great Indian painting; "Psyche," "She," "The Modei," "Even-Ing" and "A Night of Revelry."

Seldom has a picture explained itself more clearly than this composition—"The Consequence of Vice." The eye takes in at a single glance the whole miserable story. The cards lying scattered on the table and floor, and liquors that heat the blood, are, perhaps, the key to the tragedy.

The players have started up on some accusation of one of them of cheating, and a deadly duel has been enacted.

Near the doorway, just departing in the charge of the "gendarme," his mioned hands just showing, is the dark and dangerous-looking murderer. the winner of the awful game. He half glances around, the traces of rage just passing from his face in a look of fierce malignity and dogged resentment at the imprecations that are being heaped upon him by the indignant peasants and the dying man, and the mother, wife or sweetheart vainly trying to stop the ebbing life-blood that gushes from the heart; the fainting sisters-what a terrible story it all tells! Perhaps the two principals were boyhood chums, and now-

There are a couple of little poems by Browning which perfectly convey the heat and after-chill of a duel. That entitled "Before" begins with the line, "Let them fight it out, friends; things have gone too far." permeated with the sentiment of a terrible and ineffable regret, concludes:

"I would we were boys as of old in the field by the fold, His outrage, God's patience, man's scorn, were so easily borne," This magnificent painting is valued at $10,000, and is considered one of the best efforts of this distinguished artist. Another canvas—a study of the nude, from the same easel-is also exhibited. Our PICTURE GALLERY is fitted and draped to show to the best advantage these superb paintings. Hours of exhibition from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

While Guests Dined Fire Laddies Worked in the Laundry.

Officer Stack, standing on Pine street, just west of Fourth street, at about 7:30 o'clock last evening; was surprised to see flames in the basement of the new Planters' House. He quickly turned in an alarm from Box 41, across the street, and a few minutes inter the engines dashed up, creating quite a commotion on the outside of the big hostelry. The firemen rushed in, and found the corridor filled with smoke, issuing from the laundry. There they discovered that the dry-room, becoming overheated, had set fire to some shirts and walters' jackets, and was spreading throughout the room. The blaze was extinguished by flooding the place. in the Laundry.

The funeral party in charge of it will in here Tuesday morning and the body is pected at the City Hall at 8 o' cheek. It remais until 10. This morning a commit of colorest men called at the heyor's o to ask permission for the corpes to list into in the City Hall. The hayor gave consent.

Night Rides by Solitary Graveyards-Death in the Darkness-A Gallant Body of Guardsmen.

Crowning the crest of a lofty hill on the Southern boundary of Forest Park, about 100 yards west of King's highway, is an ornate red brick structure, lighted by electricity and approached by graveled roads and grantfold sidewalks, whose tout ensemble is so imposing at to impress with its importance any one who happens to pass by along the Clayton Road. its importance any one who happens to pass by along the Clayton Road. All its appointments are of such simple elegance that it might be taken at first sight for the country residence of some wealthy St. Louisan were it not for the massive doors to which the graveled walk leads, and which are not of the kind with which wealthy gentlemen adorn the fronts of their palatial homes.

No stranger would ever guess that this magnificent structure which looks down so proudly on the undulating country below, was either a Police Station or a horse stable, yet it is in reality both, being the headquarters of the city's mounted police service and the establishment in which the Department's horses are housed.

This institution, owned by the city of St. Louis, is conducted by two Chiefs. Dr. William R. Faulkner, the Superintendent of the Police Stables, and Capt. William Keeble, who is in charge of the mounted police.

Dr. Faulkner has general supervision of Keeble, who is in charge of the mounted police.

Dr. Faulkner has general supervision of the first floor of the big building, including the stables, blacksmith shop, feed, horses and store rooms, but on the upper floor, the police headquarters proper, Capt. Keeble reigns supreme.

Capt. Keeble is a tall, slender man of military bearing, now past middle age. Though born 56 years ago, his eye is still as bright and his tread as firm at it was a score of years past. He has been a mounted policeman for twenty years, and has earned his present position by faithful service to the department.

He has a scar on his hand where he was cut by Isom Chambers, a notorious Rock Springs negro; cuts on his shins from being thrown from his horse while chasing that famous chicken fancier. Tom Goabout, and has had many thrillling adventures and narrow escapes while hunting famous law-breakers.

"There are seven Police Districts in the narrow escapes while hunting famous law-breakers.

"There are seven Police Districts in the city," said Capt. Keeble to a representative of the Sunday Post-Dispatch, "and my district is one and two-thirds as large as all the others put together. You know, it is bounded only by the city limits on tha North, West and South, and on the East by Grand avenue, except from Duncan avenue to the Natural Bridge Road, where it is King's highway. The mounted or Seventh District is not as densely populated as the others, but then there are quite a number of people in it, and it is so large that I can, for instance, put the whole of the First District in one of my beats, the whole of the Third District an my Forest Park beat and the entire Fourth District in two of my northern beats."

gives all the men eight hours in the saddle. The men relieve each other at different parts of the park after an arrangement which Mr. Donegan and myself fixed up. When I took charge out here I at first issued an order to the men to walk on their beats until the relief arrived, my idea being not to leave the beats uncovered at any time. But I found this worked a great hardship on the men who had the beats near the extreme city limits, as it was in many cases a three hours' ride or more for them to come in, and by waiting they were forced to remain out so much over time. So I arranged to have them come in from their beats so as to reach the edge of Forest Park just in time to meet their relieving partners coming Officers Rice and McDonald were nearly beaten to death by a crowd of negroes.

Officer Nau had the narrowest escape of any. He was riding way up in Baden one night last fall looking for two negroes who come in a long the Belifontaine road and eighting the pair of heavy fur gloves, but took them in a long the Belifontaine road and eighting them in a wagon he gave chase. He had on a pair of heavy fur gloves, but took them off and tucked them under his coat so as to be better fitted for business.

When he neared them, a regular fusillade began. They refused to stop and he shot both of them. They returned the fire and one of the builts pierced his coat just looked in his big gloves and he escaped uniquired. Moth the negroes were captured at Clayton and sentenced to tray years in the penitentiary.

Capt. Keeble had a thrilling experience one night about ten years ago. He had just started North from the old Cote Brilliante Station and started across Marcus avenue in the darkest kind of a place when his horse, a fine old steed named "fluster," walked right into an excavatia, eleven feet deep and both the animal and its rider plunged to the bottom. The horse was instantly killled by the shock, but Captain (then Sergeant) Keeble, though stumed, had presence of mind enough left to reach for his revolver and fire several shots. To prevent the cruel possibility of a mounted officer freezing they were allowed "warming hours" during the recent cold spell. That is they were permitted to seek the glowing stoves in the engine houses and other accessible places along their routes. But even then they suffered great hardship from the intense cold. Two of the mounted men, Connors and Flynn, were injured by their horses slipping on the ice and falling on them.

A mounted patrolman is much more compressive looking than a footman. A very small yellow stripe decorates the sides of his trousers and there is a yellow braid knot on his shoulders. The mounted sergeants look like regular army officers with their yellow chevrons, the yellow tassels on their batons, their riding boots with their glittering, spurs and their gold-braided slouch hats. The captain's uniform is paticularly pretty. paticularly pretty.

The mounted police force has been in existence in this city for probably twenty-five years. It was first introduced in the Fifth District in Capt. Fox's time. In 1890 the force was divided between the Fifth and Sixth Districts, but a few months ago all

SERGEANT COLESTOCK.
Haynes, Klein, Monrotus, Meehan, Miller, O'Gorman, Stewart, Dillon and Dorsey.
Sergt. Boland's squad consists of Officers Buckle, Connors, Coay, A. Drier, W. Drier, Hornecker, Holowell, Hutton, Hennessy, Kell, Long, McWay, Nau, Nicholson, M. Walsh, Crump, Dowd and O'Connor.

Capt. Keeble, whose duties frequently call him away from headquarters, is represented when absent by Sergt. Charles H. Rea and Officer Thomas G. Donegan, Sergt. Rea having charge during the night and Officer Donegan during the day.

Capt. Keeble is a Confederate veteran. He was born in St. Charles County, Mo., on Christmas day, 183, and when the war broke out enfisted in the Southern army, and organized a company at Wentsville. This command spent six months in service in the Blackfoot Hills in Boone County and then went South, surrendering at Alexandria in 1863. After the war Capt. Keeble returned to Missouri, and on April 15, 1875, joined the police force, being assigned to the Second District, then commanded by Capt. Hercules. After being there only a few months he was transferred to the Fifth District—mounted. He was made a Sergeant Jan. 1, 1879, and remained a mounted Sergeant under Capts. Fox, Frangel, Huebler, Fruchte and Campbell was transferred to the new Sixth District. Capt. Keeble remained in charge of the Fifth District until the new mounted district was formed, when he was transferred to his present post.

Sergt. Charles H. Rea, who is in charge of the Mounted District at night, is an educated gentleman, who attended school at West Point. He has been a mounted Sergeant for years, and rode a beat for quite a while. Sergt. Rea is a quiet man, and wears a close-cropped brownish beard. He is the artist of the police department and draughts all their maps.

Officer Thomas Donegan, who takes Sergt. Rea's place by day, is an officer of long experience in the police department. He is probably 45 years of age, and has a reddish mustache. He was one of the founders of the Police Relief Association, and is an ex-President of that organization. He does a Sergeant's work at the new station, and is so efficient that Capt. Keeble says he doesn't know a Sergeant in the department he would care to trade Mr. Donegan for.

Sergt. P. E. Kennedy is a handsome, middle-aged man of soldierly bearing, with a profusion of ourly black hair. He has been a Sergeant for the past four years, and is a very attentive and painstaking officer. He was mounted for years before becoming a Sergeant.

He was mounted for years before becoming a Sergeant.

Sergt. Boland is an efficer whose hair has turned gray in the mounted service, though he is not an old man by any means. He has not been mounted all the time, however, having been assigned to the Second and Fifth Districts at various times.

Sergt. Geo. W. Colestock is the newest of the Sergeants, only having been given his stripe at the time of Sergt. Geannon's tragic death. He is a great favorite among the business men of South St. Louis, where he has ridden for years, and where he is a terror to the law breakers.

BIG BOOM

Commodore George Gould and the FINE FLEET OF BIG YACHTS.

Mr. Gould Begins by Bringing a Notable List of Wealthy Wall Street Men Into the Club.

Special Correspondence Sunday Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The election of George Gould as Commodore of the Atlantic Yacht Club means the greatest boom that American yachting has received in half a ntury. It me ns, too, that the Atlanti Yacht Club will become the foremost yacht club in the United States, and that its fleet of yachts will rival the squadron of the New York Yacht Club, which has heretofore included nearly every big American yacht in its enrollment list.

The election of Commodore Gould makes the big steam yacht Atalanta the flagship of the fleet, and raises to the masthead the flag of the wealthiest yacht-owner in the world. Besides this, Commodore Gould controls the famous cup-defender Vigilant and is the owner of the big schooner Hildegarde. Commodore Gould is a thorough sportsman, an expert yachtsman and an enthusiast. The unanimous choice of this energetic and experienced yachtsman for the executive head of the Atlantic Yacht Club less than two weeks ago has already begun to bear fruit.

The largest yachts find an absolutely safe anchorage but a few hundred feet away from the broad plazzas of the club, overlooking New York harbor at Bay Ridgs. They can be put ashore in a few minutes and find every comfort—a telephone, the newspapers, billiard tables and a first-class restaurant of their own.

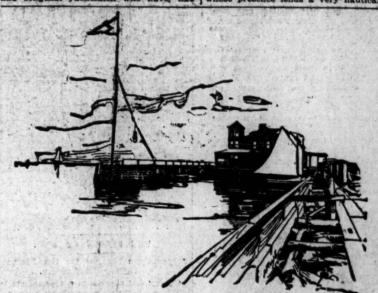

In the club-house they can "put up" for the night or find rooms for their friends, and there they are nearly always sure to find congenial yachtsmen who have, like

DIBD IN GREAT AGONY.

Little Michael Rosenauer Swallowed a Dose of Lye.

Michael Rosenauer, a t-year-old boy whe lived with his family at 2428 Grace avenue died at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the effects of a dose of lye which he had innocently taken the afternoon before. His mother had left the can of lye open on the kitchen floor and the little fellow helpad himself to it. A physician was summoned, but to no avail, as the burning poison had done its work.

CAPT. KEEBLE, IN CHARGE OF THE MOUNTED SQUAD. territory, Captain?" the reporter asked.
"We do it this way: The district is divided up into twenty-nine or thirty different beats. Seventeen of these are patrolled by mounted men and the remainder by footmen. To cover these beats we have about seventy-five men available. The foot beats take up so many of our policemen that we have only about fifty left for the mounted patrol. These foot beats are in the thickly settled out. I have issued orders to the men on each beat as to what road to travel coming in and where to meet his relief. Take, for instance, the man who travels beat No. 4; hat is just inside the city limits, between Easton avenue and Natural Bridge road. He is instructed to come across Goodfellow avenue and meet the relief at the Lindell Railway pavilion. The man from beat No. 2, up in the extreme north end, comes along King's highway and meets his relief at the Blair monument; another comes across Union avenue and meets his relief at the park road. Others approach from the east and south along stated routes, and the result is that six policemen pass any given point along any main street or road in the district every day. I would like the public to understand this, for they could often find an officer with much greater ease by waiting for him to come along at his schedule time.

Wheelmen Make Merry in Rags and Old Clothes and Look a Good Deal Worse Than They Really Are.

The hardest-looking lot of citizens that The hardest-looking lot of citizens that sver assembled met at the St. Louis Cycling Club last night to participate in the annual "Hard Times Smoker." The costumes were strictly rags, and no one clad in decent clothes could gain admission. The worse the clothes were torn, the more welcome

The invitations that were sent out were themselves evidence of hard times. They were on plain straw-board, about five by six inches, and bore the announcement that "rags will constitute full-dress." Stamped in red ink were the words "Present this card at the door."

There were fifty miserable specimens of humanity that presented themselves at the door. Their faces were grimed, and their hands looked as though water was foreign to them. Altogether, they were such a lot as the police would be charmed to club over the head.

Some of the guests and the costumes they wore were as follows:

When an infant his parents moved into the city and he attended later the public schools in Cumberland. In 1881 he matriculated at Western Maryland College, at Westmingter, and in 1885 he graduated see. matriculated at Western Maryland College, at Westminster, and in 1885 he graduated second in his class.

He was appointed to the mall service that year and served until 1889. He also read law with Judge Andrew H. Buyd.

In 1889 Mr. Willison became business manager and assistant editor of the Cumberland Evening Times, a position he held until 1891. As correspondent of that paper he was the first outside newspaper man to get into Johnstown, after the fearful flood of 1889, being enabled by his knowledge of his native mountain country to reach the scene of the disaster.

increase in enthusiastic riders than it is now. Through the good offices of the Associated Cycling Clubs harmony has been restored and all will unite to make the season a memorable one. A meeting of the A. C. C. will be held at the Cycling Club on Tuesday at 8 p. m., to which all the L. A. W. consuls and club captains have been invited to adopt a list of fixtures for the year. Beginning with the St. Louis County tour in April, the wheels will be kept rolling till late in November.

Clayton was the destination of the spring tour last year and the choice lies between it and the Oakville Fair Grounds. The annual pigrimage over the fine gravel roads of Pike County will doubtless be the attraction on May 12.

June 1 will probably be the date of the fifth annual Forest Park road race, which will attract the crack riders from the entire West, and for their benefit a union De Soto run will be placed on the card for June 2. A moonlight run under the auspices of the A. C. C. is talked of for June 8 to Busch's Grove. The annual State meet will be a fixture for July 3 and 4, wall it will be held at either Jefferson City or St. Louis. On the third Saturday in July a monster daylight parade of all the local riders is being agitated.

Application has been made for dates on the national racing circuit during August and the tournament to be given will eclipse last year's effort. A hill-climbing contest is meeting with favor for September, and if sufficient interest is taken in this event to insure a large entry list it can be made a success. October will see the St. Louis County tour repeated, with St. Charles as the probable destination. All the tours and races, with the exception of the State meet, will be held under the joint auspices of the L. A. W. Touring Committee and the Associated Cycling Clubs.

A new bicycle club was organized last week and adopted the name of "The Cen-tury Road Club of Missouri." While the new organization will be affiliated with the Century Road Club of the United States, it will not confine itself to century riders, but will encourage long riders on the road. The officers are: President, Geo. S. Easton; secretary, John W. Hurck; treasurer, H. Cochran. W. W. Gardner, A. Boos and Wm. Balley are among the other prominent members.

SPORT—1 COL CUT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The selection of George D. Gideon, the Pennsylvania member of the National Racing Board to succeed Howard Raymond as Chairman of the Racing Board to day was the first official act of President Willison and the appointment is a popular one. The new Chairman is 35 years of age and one of the pioneers of cycling. In 1881 he served on the Racing Board and continued with Chairman Raymond. This long service makes him fitted for the office of Chairman.

It was in 1880 that he first took to the sport. In that year he won his first race. In those days it was considered good time to ride a mile in four minutes. In the early eightles he won the fifty-mile championship over the American Institute course. His time was 3 hours 13 minutes and 49 seconds. At Beston, in April, 1885, he placed the five-mile record at 15 minutes, 104; seconds. In June, the same year, he won the two and five mile championships of the League.

He is a severe disciplinarian and the racing men can expect no quarter when detected in the violation of any rules.

Competitive C. R. C. Awards.

Competitive C. R. C. Awards.

During the season of 1895, and at its close, the following awards will be made to Century Club members:

Meritorious Rides.—A performance such as a Century ride over the Eigin-Aurora course, or upon the De Soto road, under circumstances demanding such unusual demonstration of the possibilities of cycling as to attract public attention, would ordinarily earn for the rider a small bronze medal, of modest design. The breaking of the twenty-five-mile road record, or a performance of similar merit, would earn a gold medsal, struck from the same dis.

Greatest Individual Mileage.—A gold medal. Competitors must send to the chairman of the road records committee reports of daily rides at least once in two weeks, and such reports must sappear to him to be veracious in order to make them acceptable.

Best Individual Century Record.—A gold medal.

Greatest Club Century Record.—A fine banner.

Victor Bicycle Club.

The Victor Bicycle Club.

The Victor Club is adopting a new constitution, which will provide for twenty-eight officers of the organization, and these will be elected at the meeting on Thursday evening at the new quarters, 3305 Franklin avenue. The idea in electing so many officers is to systematize every department in the club.

Chairman Raymond's official report credits Bert Harding of the St. Louis Cycling Club with the records of the standing start from 2 to 100 miles.

R. L. Hill has returned from Louisville. The South Sides have adopted a fawn-colored cap for 1895.

Forty-six members are now enrolled at the Cycling Club, and the club is booming.

The annual ball of the Victor Cycling Club will be held at the Concordia Club March 9.

S. L. Rugg, H. A. Sauter and H. St. Jean are the latest applicants for South Side membership.

L. A. W. sanctions for national circuit meets will cost $10, general sanction, one day, $2, and each additional day $1; athletic clubs, $3. and 50 cents additional for each succeeding day.

The quarterly meeting of the Missouri Division officials will be held at the South Side Cycle Club Saturday, March 2, at 8 p. m.

Side Cycle Club Saturday, March z, at ep. m.

A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Cycling Division will be held at the club-rooms to-morrow night and the local dealers have been invited to exhibit and lecture on the merits of their respective wheels.

Missouri's supply of road books is entirely exhausted. Maps of the local riding district are still on hand and are furnished to members free. This matter and the one of guide boards as well as the location of the State meet will have the attention of the Board of Officers.

By their victory over the Cycling Club last Sunday the Diels jumped into first place and from now on the games will be watched with great interest, for a defeat to either of these clubs will mean the loss of the championship. "DUTCH" NEIL ACCEPTS.

Will Meet an Unknown at Terre Haute for an $800 Purse.

"Dutch" Neil, the well-known St. Louis welter-weight, has accepted an offer from Frank Haggerty of Terre Haute (Ind.) to Frank Haggerty of Terre Haute (Ind.) to meet an unknown at that point on or about March 12, for a purse of $800. Haggarty guarantees that the unknown will fight at between 140 and 145 pounds, and Neil says he will scale in at about 142 pounds. The St. Louis boy is guaranteed his expenses, win or lose. Mike Mooney will train him and accompany him to Terre Haute.

Neil wired to Chicago last night regarding Tommy White's proposition to have either him or "Shorty" O'Hern meet Tommy Ryan, the weiter-weight champion, on Monday night. White is assisting "Parson" Davies in arranging the Choynski-Ryan show in Chicago. He announced on Thursday night that, in case Davies failed to get Tracey for the bout with Ryan, either Neil or O'Hern could be secured. Neil was in ignorance of the fact, however, until he read it in Saturday's Post-Dispatch. Nothing would please him better than a chance at Ryan. He is certain that he can hold his own with the weiter-weight champion.

BROWN STOCKING PLAYERS. Miller Here for a Short While and Ehret Still Unsigned.

George Miller, the Browns' midget backstop, and all-around player, arrived in the city from Pittsburg yesterday morning and left immediately for Hot Springs, where he will get in trim before reporting for duty.
Miller is on good terms with Manager Buckenberger, and although he may not captain the Browns again this season that fact will not prevent him from hustling as much as he can for the success of the team.

The trouble in getting Pitcher Phil Ehret in line is due to the fact that Ehret insists upon getting an advance of $500. President Von der Ahe considers this amount entirely too much, and the chances are that Ehret will wait a long while before he gets it.
Ehret is still in Pittsburg, and when President Von der Ahe arrives there to meet Manager Buckenberger the pair will unite their persuasive powers in trying to get the pitcher to afrix his signature to a St. Louis contract.

He was with Manager Watkins' Sloux City champions last season, and classed as one of the hardest hitting and best outfielders in the Western League, Genins has wintered in St. Louis, and is in good shape for the coming season. He is getting ready to report for duty.

PAT FLAHERTY'S DILEMMA.

Accepts an Advance from Memphis and Is Claimed by Milwaukee.

Patsy Flaherty, who has accepted ad-ance money from Memphls, is in receipt of a contract from Milwaukee, and if Manager Twitchell has him under reserve he will in all probability play in Milwaukee or no-where. When Flaherty accepted advance money from Memphis, the Milwaukee man-agement was negotiating for Third Base-man Camp and Flaherty did not suupose he was wanted in the "Cream City." In coming to this conclusion, however, he seems to have been a little previous. Flaherty is win-tering in North St. Louis.

MADISON TRACK RESULTS.

Volunteer IL Disappoints His Backers and Only Two Favorites Saved the Talent.

Impostor may be such by name, but his cortunate backers at Mudison Saturday, hink he is just the opposite as a race horse Impostor may be such by name, but his fortunate backers at Madison Saturday, think he is just the opposite as a race horse from what his cognomen would indicate. They backed him from 3 to 1 down to evens, and Impostor justified the confidence placed in him by winning easily with two legaths to spare from St. Nicholas. Paddy Flynn was third, the same distance back of St. Nicholas. The latter and Eclipse, Jr., made the running. After leading into the stretch, Eclipse, Jr., "blew up," and finished back in the ruck. Impostor and Tip, who made connections in the fourth race, were the only winning favorities. Volunteer III, John Berkley and Van Zandt proving disappointments to the talent. Especially was this the case with old Volunteer, who ran almost last. John Berkley and Van Zandt gave their backers a better run, both finishing second in their respective races. Attractive weather drew a good Saturday crowd to the track and the going, which is now about thoroughly thawed out, was in tip top shape.

Cerberus, second pick at 4 to 1, galloped in front all the way and won the opening event, handily by three lengths. Four horses, The Surgeon, Fall City, Calanthe and Gore Jay fought a desperate battle for the place, finishing necks apart, in the order named. This was the race in which Volunteer II. disappointed his backers.

John Berkley, Jordan and Heads or Talls were most in demand for the third race, but the winner turned up in Speedwest, who was backed by a few at 4 to 1. Jordan and Dutch Oven alternated in the lead, until the stretch was reached, when Speedwest came from behind and won galloping by four lengths. The favorite, John Berkley had all he could do to beat Helen for the place, by a neck.

The was backed from 3 to 2 down to evens for the fourth race and he won easily by one legth. Swifter went to the front early in the route and led his field by a comfortable margin, until Tip got ready to make his run. In the stretch, Swifter gave up entirely and finished unplaced. Chance defeated Caleb for the place by fi

Pauline, who was in front during the early part of the race, took third money. The summaries:

First race, eleven-sixteenths of a mile-Cerebus 118 (Beach), 4 to 1, first; The Surgeon 102 (Manns), 6 to 1, third. Time, 1:16. Barker Harrison, Calanthe, Gore Jay, Halpin, Lemon Blossom, Pink Bloomer and Volunteer II. also ran.

Second race, nine-sixteenths of a mile-Impostor 118 (16bbs), even, first; St. Nicholas 110 (Crowe), 4 to 1, second; Paddy Flynn 108 (R. Smith), 8 to 1, third. Time, 1:01. Bella G., Eclipse, Jr., Mamie Duffy, Shy Ellen and Shiloh also ran.

Third race, eleven-sixteenths of a mile-Speedwest 108 (Vignes), 4 to 1, first; John Berkley, 108 (Nichols), 2 to 1, second; Helen 108 (R. Smith), 8 to 1, third. Time, 1:15. Dutch Oven, Heads or Talls, Jordan and Nancy Hakes also ran.

Fourth race, three-fourths of a mile—Tip 194 (R. Smith), even, Sirst; Chance 102 (Manns), 8 to 1, second; Caleb 104 (Davis), 4 to 1, third. Time, 1:21. Econda, Pat Murdock, Speedawsy and Swifter also ran.

dary this morning. It would show one moment and the next the sun would shine. The fact that to-day is "Market Day" here had a great deal to do with the poor attendance. The card was a good one, and with the fields evenly balanced the sport was interesting. All sorts of rumors about this meeting and the coming ones at Alexander Island and St. Asaph were floating around, but most of them were of whole cloth. It was said the meeting here would be continued twenty-five days, and at Alexander Island the people had been refused a license and that the St. Asaph meeting would not commence until March 25. There was no foundation for any of them, and the chances are that nothing definite will be known till next week. The summaries:

First race, nine-sixteenths of a mise—Princess Alix Si (C. Donnelly), 4 to 5, first by a length; Boonton 33 (W. Barrett), 4 to 1, second; Hay Tay 103 (W. MoDermott), 5 to 1, third. Time, 1:00. McCormick, Selsh, Snocks, May Bird and King Bird also ran.

Second race, eleven-sixteenths of a mile—Holyport 16 (Boyle), 6 to 1, first by half a length; Con Lucey 105 (W. Morris), 3 to 5, second; Jewell 55 (Donnelly), 4 to 1, third. Time, 1:15. William Penn, Mikey B. and Pickaway also ran.

ALEXANDER ISLAND SHUT OUT Nearly All Members of the Turf Congress Against It.

Alexander Island will not be admitted into the Western Turf Congress, despits Secretary Tompkins efforts to have his track recognized. As stated exclusively in the Post-Dispatch, Mr. Tomkins visited St. Louis last week and made application to President C. C. Maffitt, and asked that a telegraphic vote be taken at once. Mr. Maffitt acceled to his wishes, and issued instructions to wire every member of the Congress to send his vote in a similar manner on the subject.

CO-OPERATIVE TURY ASSOCIATION. New Orleans Company Which Claims Almost to Control the Turf.

L. M. Shipley of 4000 Delmar boulevard is in receipt of a communication from William Nightingale, president, and J. G. Colkins. Nightingale, president, and J. G. Colkins, secretary, of the United Turf Co-operative Association, inviting him to become a certificate holder in the association. The institution has its headquarters in the United States Trust and Bank Building in New Orleans, La., and according to the prospectus, which accompanied Mr. Shipley's communication, it proposes to do a gigantic business in running and trotting horse racing. The prospectus describes what immense profits are made by the race track owners, bookmakers and horse owners.

By combining with the aid of the capital realized from the sale of the file certificates, which strangers are very considerately permitted to purchase, the promoters of the scheme intend to form a huge racing trust in the way of making books, running race horses and operating race tracks.

No protection is furnished investors. Nothing is so uncertain as the turf, but this does not prevent the co-operative association from guaranteeing profits to its certificate holders.

When shown the prospectus, Post Office

from guaranteeing profits to its certificate holders.

When shown the prospectus, Post Office Inspector Johnson said: "I should advise intended investors to be sure they are right before they part with their meney. We can do nothing toward stopping such people from using the mails for their schemes, unless it can be proven that they are practising fraud. In this particular instance it would be hard to prove that such was a fact, until some one comes forward after losing money. Then we might be able to investigate, but I am afraid with only small satisfaction, as the promoters would claim they lost the money on the tracks. It would not be hard for them to prove that such was the case apparently, as they could offer up in evidence such books as they pleased.

Visit Madison to Have a Look at the Foster's two brothers, Tom and George, have arrived in St. Louis from St. Paul, and were at Madison Saturday. Fred had them over to see Dr. Rice, Eloroy, Sullross, Disturbance and the rest of his string. Tom Foster is in the employ of a merchant, who has stores in St. Paul and St. Louis and he has been transferred to the local establishment. All the Foster family will come down from St. Paul as soon as Fred can purchase a suitable residence.

Jockey Johnny Mooney has returned to St.

Turfman Louis Cella is a candidate for Adderman from the Seventeenth Ward, subject to the Democratic primary.
Dan Honig will race his string at St. Asaph or East St. Louis in case Roby falls to open March!
Banquet, though now in his eighth year, will prove a troublesome horse for the English horses to beat. He has the distinction of being the largest winner on the American turf among horses of his own age as 4, 5 and 6-year-old, as well as last year as an "aged."

The trouble between Jockey Leale Washburn and Meyer Silberstein, the St. Louis owner of the race horse St. Leo, has been compromised, Silberstein paying Washburn about one-half the amount the latter claimed was due him, and regaining possession of the horse again. In consequence, it is not thought the charge of horse stealing will be pressed against Washburn. Settled Their Differences.

SENATOR RANSOM.

His Appointment as Minister to Mex ico Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 22.—The President to-day nominated Hon. Matthew Whitaker M. Ransom, Senator from North Carolina, for Minister to Mexico, to succeed the late Hon. Issae P. Gray. The nomination was received by the Senate at 1.25 o'clock, but the fact that the name was to be sent in to-day did not become known early. Few nominations have been sent to the Senate which have been received with greater favor. An old-time member of the Senate which have been received with greater favor. An old-time member of the Senate and personally popular with all its members, the entire Senate with two or three exceptions, and those exceptions being because of relations with the executive, had joined in the recommendation of the appointment.

Mr. Ransom has been a member of the Senate continuously for the past twenty-three years, being first chosen in 1872. During the war he filled in succession the grades of Lieutenant Colonel, Colonel, Brigadier General, and Major General. Senator Ransom is & years of age, but is well preserved and does not show his age. He is a man of polished manners and of much tact, and his colleagues unite in the opinion that he will make an ideal dplomat.

The Senate went into executive session immediately after receiving the nomination and confirmed it by unanimous vots.

THIN PEOPLE

Now the Weight May Be Increased in a Healthful Natural Manner,

All people who are thin are not necessarily so from disease, it is natural for some to be thin, and no amount of treatment would add an iota to their weight, but the great majority of people are thin because their digestion is not perfect, their stomachs do not thoroughly digest flesh-forming foods, they may not have chronic dyspepsia, but their digestion is not vigorous enough to assimilate the food necessary for robust health and to keep up their weight.

For all such, the new discovery for tyspepsia and indigestion comes as a most welcome addition to the list of meritorious remedies. The new discovery referred to is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which is not only a pleasant and certain cure for indigestion, but possesses the peculiar power of digestion, but possesses the peculiar power of digesting flesh-forming foods, like meat, eggs and similar ordinary foods, so that the increase in weight is a perfectly natural process. One grain of the digestive principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of flesh-forming food. Dr. Jennison recently stated that he depends altor gether upon these tablets for the cure of dyspepsia and stomach troubles and that they not only cure the indigestion, but in every case a gratifying increase in weight was noticed, not fat, but the proper amount of flesh for health and symmetry. Dr. Harlandson speaks highly of the tablets, not only because they build up flesh and cure indigestion, but they are absolutely safe and harmless, no matter what the condition of the stomach, and are excellent not only for the ordinary dyspeptic but for invalids and children.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package, and a trial will convince anyone of their merits.

A REMARKABLE CURE.

CASE OF PILES OF EIGHTEEN YEARS' STANDING.

Cured by the Pyramid Pile Cure.

There are plenty of pile cures which give relief and sometimes cure a mild case of piles, but there is only one which can be depended upon with certainty to cure obstinate long standing cases, and that is the Pyramid Pile Cure.

Endorsements and testimonials are received daily from men and women whose integrity and reliability are above question and in this connection a letter received from the Rev. Jas. H. Westbrook of Bowne, Mich., may be of interest to pile sufferers who have sought in vain for a cure. He says:

who have sought in vain for a cure. He says:

"I have used the Pyramid Pile Cure and I know that it is all that is claimed for it. I had been troubled with piles more or less for about eighteen years and I had tried other remedies, but the piles grew worse until about ten months ago I used the Pyramid Pile Cure. It gave almost instant relief and I have been free from piles ever since. Rev. Jas. H. Westbrook.

The remedy seems to at equally well in every form of piles, bird, bleeding, protruding or itching. It stops all pain almost immediately, allays irritation and removes constipation, and anyone who has suffered the annoyance and pain of a rectal trouble will appreciate the excellent results which invariably follow the first application of the Pyramid.

cago last week revives the somewhat unfamiliar story of his ride.

The incident referred to is the perilous journey made by Dr. Marcus Whitman from Walilatpu is Oregon to Washington City, a distance of about 4,000 miles, in the depths of winter and his road beset with hostile foes.

The object of this terrific and soul-trying ride was to give some information to the Government which resulted in the occupation by Americans of that Northwest section of the country now known as the three states of Washington, Oregon and Idaho; a section equal in area to six times that of Massachusetts.

To fully understand the import of the incident referred to it will be necessary to sketch briefly the conditions which lead up to it. The Hudson Bay Company, composed chiefly of Scotchmen who had the interests of Great Britain at heart, after the interests of their own company, were in possession of this vast territory by grant and by leasehold in 1841, and they discouraged immigration as being opposed to on reaching Grand River, 500 yards wide, the stream was discovered to be frozen for about one-third of its width on either side, while the open stream was a raging torrent. The guide said it could not be crossed, but Dr. Whitman, growing impatient over the delays which had strended the journey, would not be brooked and rode his horse into the river. He was caught by the flerce waters, and sank underneath for a few moments, but finally managed to make the crossing. Loveloy and the guide followed him, but all were so exhausted that they camped by the side of the river, and dried themselves by a roaring camp fire while they rested.

They then proceeded to Tose, making it in thirty days, and were forced by exhaustion from cold and hunger to rest there fifteen days. Having reached the Santa Fe trail, they proceeded to Bent's Fort, arriving there on Jan. 3, 1843. While well worn by his perlious and arduous journey, Dr. Whitman was impatient to get on to Washington, and left ten days later, as he feared and the United States lose Oregon. He had spoken of it when they had been delayed by the fearful snow storm in the Uncompahyre range.

Dr. Whitman left Lovelov at Bent's Fort and pushed on alone to St. Louis. Here his advent was the occasion of no little comment at the time. He became a guest of William Harrows, the historian of Oregon, who was then a resident of this city, and many persons who had Western interests called upon him. It was a matter of no little surprise to those acquainted with the wildness of the then far west that Dr. Whitman had made the journey in the middle of winter. But he was not interested by such subjects, the sole thought which engrossed his mind being the Ashburton-Webster boundaries treaty, and he could not rest until he had inquired about it.

could not rest until he had inquired about it.

He then learned that even before he had commenced his perilous journey the treaty had been signed by Webster. That was on Aug. 2, 1842; it was ratified Aug. 25, and on Nov. 10, while he was foundering around in the deep snow drifts and canons of the Rocky Mountains, it had been signed and proclaimed by President Tyler.

But to his great joy he also learned that there was nothing contained in the treaty regarding Oregon. This was on account of the fact that so little was known of the far Northwest that the boundary lines were only mentioned and established as far as the parallel of longitude marking the eastern line of the section then known as Oregon, and the balance of the question of boundaries had been postponed.

The Doctor took stage from St. Louis on learning that he was not too late to carry out the purpose of his wonderful ride through snow and ice and raging floods and over storm-swept mountain ranges, and arrived in Washington March 3, the to those fertile neids and plants and day all that valuable territory is in the possession of the United States.

Whitman's ride, if penned by one who could do it the justice it deserves, is a story that has not its superior in American history for high purpose, daring, romance and splendid achievement.

BATTLING GREAT WAVES.

The Thrilling Story of the British Ship Benlarig's Voyage.

rom Galeta Buena, Peru, October 16, was sighted at the Highlands at noon, slowly creeping into port. She brings with her a creeping into port. She brings with her a thrilling story of the dangers of the sea, which is also another evidence of the severity of the recent cyclone.

Ever since February 16, when she was blown to sea by a cyclone after being in sight of the harbor, she has been struggling off Cape Hatteras trying to beat her way back to port though without a stitch of canvas on her bare poles. When sighted to-day she was well off shore making such slow headway that there was little hope that she could reach port before well along in the night.

A Corpse On the Beach.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

FIRE ISLAND, N. Y., Feb. 23.—The body of Captain W. M. Squires, of the schooner Louis Place, was found this morning on the beach at Shinnecock. He was 55 years old and left a wife and two children. His sister, Mrs. Booth, and a brother, lived at Bridgehampton, which was the Captain's home. The schooner was wrecked off Lone Hill Life Saving Station during the great storm. Her crew clung to the rigging in sight of the life savers, but could not be reached. One by one they were frozen until all but two were dead. These were finally rescued.

Helpless at Sea.

Helpless at Sea.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Feb. 23.—The pilot boat E. C. Knight, for whose safety there was deep concern, had a trying experience. For ten days and nights she was out at sea, and despite all seamanship could do was almost abandoned. For sixty hours she lay to. The spray froze on her deck and rigging. She would settle down headforemost into the sea, and all hands would set to chopping ice from her. This had to be kept up during the night. No marks appeared by which a course could be shaped, and in the midst of this there was a fear on the part of the men of a crash with a steamer, as they were in the path of the ocean steamers.

GENTRY SINKING FAST.

The Murderer of Madge Yorke May Never Face a Jury.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 23.—Unless a change for the better is shown, James B. Gentry, the murderer of Madge Yorke, will not face the jury. To-day he is suffering intense pain. The doctors have doubts of his recovery. "He is very low this mornhis recovery. "He is very low this morning," said the doctor at the hospital, "and the appearance of internal hemorrhages has lessened his chances of surviving."

From all appearances Gentry has not many hours to live. He bears himself heroically, and smiles on the nurses for any attention paid him. He speaks little but continually mumbles to himself. At times his mind wanders. Pneumonia, the result of the fractured rib pressing the left lung, has set in. The chief physician at the hospital received a letter from Gentry's mother in Richmond. She expressed regret and wonder at her son's action. She wrote he had always been a dutiful son. She said she could not come here at present, but wanted to be informed of any change in her son's condition. Manager Blaney of the "Baggage Check" Company, was very outspoken. "I have decided not to discharge Magee, in spite of Mr. Crossley's instructions. My reason is that he knows his business and I don't want to spoil the show. If I discharge him it will merely be because he has made a fool of himself. Flattery and getting their names in the paper are some actors' weaknesses, and nothing will ever cure them of it."

ON MOST STOCKS

Considerable Liquidation by Holders of Securities.

NO ADVANCE LOOKED FOR.

But Most Wall Street Operators Believe That the Bottom Figures Have Been Reached.

Special to The Post-Disputch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The stock market thus far this year has been a decilning one. not so much because railway earnings have been decreasing and business has been bad, not so much because railway earnings have been decreasing and business has been bad, but because the Government was threatened with bankruptcy. The last has been averted, but the others are going on. The rehabilitation of the Government finances gives its citizens and corporators a better show for their own rehabilitation, but does not of itself accomplish much. It is unlikely to increase railway earnings, nor will it do much toward the reorganization of the country's railroads. The fact that the market has not reflected the success of the bond subscriptions is not at all astonishing and not significant. There has been, up to the past fortnight, a considerable liquidation by both foreign and domestic security holders, who feared a suspension of gold payments by the Government. This coming on a narrow market has depressed it to the lowest average level of prices since the panic. In scattering cases it is still going on. Time is necessary for the assimilation of this mass of stuff, and in the meantime the outside interest in the market is small, and until it increases there is no more reason to expect a balloon to ascend until it is filled with gas. Still it is believed that an optimistic attitude is the most logical at this time. The first material factor that will come into the situation will be the condition of crops. Until something is known of the chances there is no sense in taking a positive stand in the market. In the meantime the operation of the new contract between the Government and its banking support, the early adjournment of Congress and the advent of spring form a combination of senimental influence, if not a stimulating one. In short, in discussing the market, it is fair to say that just now a decline in prices will need a fuller explanation than an advance, and that a more or less stationary range of prices will be the most logical of all.

and that a more or less stationary range of prices will be the most logical of all.

CLOSED WITHOUT CHANGE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The Post says: "In the stock market as a whole, the week closed without change in volume or character of business. To-day's changes were of little consequence, and chiefly confined to industrials, where prices were irregular. An advance of a point in Whisky excited interest, largely because of the notion that late receiver is short over 15,000 shares. Against this stands the worldly-wise theory that Greenhut's confessions to Judge Grosscup were suspiciously frank, and that any such speculations might have been more than hediged. The balance sheet published by the receivers Thursday gave ground for speculators' experiments. It was not as bad as had been expected. It reported surplus of current assets as fully $1,000,000, which at first sight seems to be less by only $270,000 than the surplus reported in April, 1894. But it should not be overlooked that in last year's statement cash and cash assets alone, not of course comprising value of distilleries, were set over against current liabilities. In this week's balance sheet $1,102,340 capital in plants is lumped in among the current assets. The statement, therefore, if drawn up on last year's method, would presumably have shown no surplus whatever. Certainly corporations with a million surplus in cash or marketable assets, and with less than $500,000 accrued or accruing liabilities, do not usually ask the protection of the courts.

The Trouble a Kansas City Man Under-went in New York.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—A well dressed man, who described himself as J. P. Broadwell of Kansas City, was a prisoner in court this morning charged with uttering a worthless cheek. He came here ten days ago from Annapolis, Md. On Feb. 14 he handed a cheek for $20, drawn by himself and payable to the hotel proprietor, in settlement of his account. He remained at the hotel and yesterday was notified that the cheek had been returned marked "N. G." He expressed surprie and said he had a deposit of $1,500 at the bank. On looking at the check he found that it had not been presented until hive days after it was drawn. This he thought might account for the lack of funds, as he had drawn other checks since that date. The hotel men determined to take no risk. When arraigned in court, he said he was in the railroad business. He explained that he was expecting a remittance every day and would then liquidate the bill. The court was impressed by his statement, and the case was dismissed. morning charged with uttering a worthless

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Charles F. G. Wahle applied to Justice Gaynor of the Subreme Court to-day for an order requiring the Standard Oil Co. of New York to furnish him with an amended bill of particulars in the suit of Mrs. Cirty to resover two pleces of property valued at about $100,-000. She declares she was compelled through duress on the part of her husband to transfer the real estate to the company to satisfy in part an alleged embezslement of $278,000 by Girty from the Cleveland plant of the company about twelve years ago. Girty was cashier of the branch. Mr. Wahle denied that the company had complete with the order of Justice Bartiett, calling for a bill of particulars. He said he had been furnished with some particulars but not enough. He wants to know all about the alleged defalcations. He holds that Girty acted as a confidential agent of the company and made transactions in stocks, running a separate and individual account. He said these transactions were numerous, and that a complete inspection of the books would show Girty was not an embezzler. He also wanted to compel the company to produce ledger B, in which a special reserve fund account was kept, showing some shady transactions. He wants to examine Mr. George Vilas of Orange, N. J. Auditor of the company at the time of the alleged embezzlements. He produces a memorandum found among Girty's papers, intending to show that by such methods things could become mixed. The paper shows a list of $157,970 worth of bonds and $40,000 transferred to want the Mr. Rockefeller and deposited in bank of New York vaults for ourselves. Whom he meant by ourselves I do not know. Perhaps he meant himself, his brother, John, H. M. Flagler and Mr. Sam Audrey. He was very anxious to have nothing, said about the bonds and did not want Col. Payne to know about them. He didn't want william T. Wardwell. F. A. Baumgardner of 4328 Delmar avenue r. A. Haumgardner of 4323 Delmar avenue, a former employe of the Rumsey Manufac-turing Company, committed suicide some time yesterday in the rooming-house at 413 Locust street by hanging himself. His body was not discovered until 1 o'clock this morn-at 8:30 o'clock in the morning and rented a 50-cent room. He was seen no more. The proprietor, Douglas Doyle, hearing no sound in the room all day, investigated at 1 o'clock this morning, and found him hanging by a piece of clothes-line to the wardrobe. His feet were drawn up, to keep from touching the floor. His body was cold.

When searched a letter with his name and address was found on his person. A new loaded revolver was in his hip pocket.

The body was removed to the morgue.

Baumgardner has been ill for some time. He left home early yesterday morning. His family were alarmed about him, for some reason, and reported the fact to the police. His usual haunts were searched but without success. He was 48 years of age and married.

It is the extra knot that tries the utmost capacity of hull, boliers, engines and increases the amount of coal bill. A five-day passage from New York to Liverpool may not be so chimerical in reality as it appears to the average man who does not keep abreast of the times. At any rate the White Star people intend to do their latest steamer on the stocks at Belfast, Ireland, Harlan & Wolff are famous as builders of magnificent ocean steamers remarkable for speed and accommodations. In the new steamer, which they are hurrying on as fast as possible, they have many incentives to excel their achievements of the past. They are working for both money and fame, and it is the essense of the contract that the new ship, after being allowed reasonable time to get her engines in working order, shall beat by at least eight hours the fastest eastern and western runs of the new Cunarders, Lucania and Campania. The name of the new steamer will be the Heroic, and it is expected she will prove worthy of the title. She is 639 feet on the water line, and will be a twin screw. Capt. Cameron of the Teutonic, whose rescue of the crew off the sinking fishing smack, Reeves, off Fire Island on Feb. 8, is still fresh in the public mind, may be depended on to do his best to lower the record. The rivairy between the companies has always been intense, the Teutonic having distinguished herself on August, 1891, by making the fastest run on record to that time from Queenstown to New York. Her time was 5 days 16 hours and 81 minutes. The beat time on record was made by the Lucania in October, 1894, of 5 days 7 hours and 23 minutes. It will be no easy task to beat this run by eight hours, but that is what the new steamer must do Tofulful her part of the contract. She will be ready for the season of 1896. acy of the Atlantic. Broken Lines.

His Story of the Train Robbery at Aquia Creek.

VERY POINTED TESTIMONY.

The Witness Cuts Holes in a Handkerchief to Illustrate the Masks Worn.

STAFFORD COURT-HOUSE, Va., Feb. 22.—Searcy resumed the stand this morning as a witness in the trial of Train Robber as a witness in the trial of Train Robber Mr. Morganfield, looking fresh and chipper. Mr. White handed him up a 44-caliber Colt's revolver, and asked him if he knew it. He said he did; that it was Charlie Morgan's pistol; that he used it at the Aquia Creek train robbery. Then Searcy was turned over to Lawyer Shay for cross-exami train robbery. Then Searcy was turned over to Lawyer Shay for cross-examination. Mr. Shay's examination was exhaustive, and traced the whole course of Searcy's life. Searcy's replies were terse and pointed. After telling of his travels in this country, Central and South America, Searcy got to the time of the robbery.

His story differed only in minor details from what had already been narrated by the other witnesses until he came to describe the manner in which their masks were put on, when Mr. Shay dramatically whipped out of his pocket a large red bandana handkerchief and asked Searcy to put it on in the manner the masks were worn.

"Are the holes cut?" asked Searcy to put it on in the manner the masks were worn. "Please cut them." Said Searcy.

"No," replied Gen. Shay.

"Please cut them."

Some one produced a pair of scissors, and Searcy cut the holes in the handkerchief, which he then put on in the manner in which he said they were worn on the night of the robbery. Then Morganfield's hat was produced, and Searcy was requested to put that on, and there he stood, the observed of all observers, an ideal train-robber.

Another sensation of the day was when Prosecutor White insisted that Searcy be allowed to answer a question in his own way, and the court so ruled.

Senator Little, for the defense, sprang to his feet at the bar and charged the Judge, and retorted that all the people thought the Judge was so assisting. Judge Ashton again sternly called counsel to order.

Mr. Shay's cross-examination was long, skillful and exhaustive, but failed to shake Searcy's testimony.

There was quite a laugh when Mr. Shay skillful and exhaustive, but failed to snake Searcy's testimony.

There was quite a laugh when Mr. Shay asked Searcy at one time in regard to his leaving some place, whether Judge Lynch was after him, and Searcy answered: "He was not, and if he was he did not catch me."
At the close of the cross-examination Searcy was ordered to stand aside and the court adjourned.

The novelty of the exhibition lies in the fact, that photographic of preparations and these send conventions and these day to make it a success. The novelty of the exhibition lies in the fact that photographs, oil paintings and crayons of these babies will be exhibited instead of the babies themselves. To add to the completeness of the exhibition, the name and age of the babies will be appended to the likeness, and also information as to the color of the baby's eyes, hair, how many teeth, and the dimensions of each little-chest, thigh, head, foot and hand. Babies from all over the world will take part in the show and mothers have sent photographs from far and near to the projectors of the exhibition. To-day some details of the exhibition were decided. It was arranged that the medals will be distributed as follows: The grand gold medal to the most popular baby to be awarded by the vote of those attending the exhibition. Two silver medals to the most perfect boy or girl baby to be awarded by a committee of artists. Two silver medals to the pretitiest boy or girl, to be awarded by a committee of artists. Two silver medals to, the joiliest boy or girl, to be awarded by a committee of actors.

There will be medals for the fat boy and girl, and the quietest and noisiest bables and the biggest and smallest babies for their ages. The character of the artistic work done by the photographers and artists will also be considered and medals for excellence of artistic and technical work will be awarded to amateurs and professionals. The committee reserve the right to reject exhibits offered. LEGISLATIVE TRAIN TO JEFFERSON CITY

How a Vast Deal of Assembly Business Is and this duty he discharge Fixed En Route.

The Nonchalent and Careless Grace of the Professional Promoter.

Cosmopolitan Idlers Return to the Monday Morning

Bouri goes to the State Capital via St.

Louis.

During the Legislative session the Monday morning train resembles a political excursion. Beside the few who have real occasion to pass through the Mississippi Valley metropolis between Friday night and Monday morning there are scores who make it their pleasure, if not their convenience, to take that route. And after all, it matters little that any go a few miles out of their most direct course, for transportation is cheap—particularly during the first seventy or eighty days of each odd-numbered year.

St. Louisans who frequent the lobbies of the principal hotels can always know when a strong force of Senators, Representatives and legislative attaches are about—because where they are, there will the political menabout-town congregate likewise. In fact, most of the legislators are politicians in active practice, and it goes without saying that the people who hold the appointive and elective positions in the legislative departments are workers, tried and true. And, in glancing over the lists of loungers this fact is always soparent—that the holders and givers of legislative place are, as far as finite eye can discern, on equal terms. There is no patronage on the one hand, no obsequiousness on the other. This is because, from the political point of view, both classes have earned their rewards; and in almost every group may be seen men who were employes, and are now employes—and may be members, and are now employes—and may be members, and are now employes—and may be members again.

Throughout the afternoon of Saturday these cosmopolitan idlers loiter about, visit what amusements they relish, and are drowsily comfortable, each in his own ways some few—men in close touch with one or the other party organization—receive urban callers of local—perhaps State—renown; but doesn't circulate—who does not move from chair to chair, leaning frantically over his vis-a-vis, and taking affectionate liberties with his cravat or his watch-chain; but who sits in one place—the place he took without remark when he first came aboard, and that he will, beyond peradventure, hold to the end of his journey, apparently not carling—certainly not making overtures—for the friendship of any. He may have matters of vast moment in mind, and look with compassion upon the horde of traders of small-talk, or he may be one of the voting rank and file that are found in every big legislative body, who usually belong to somebody, and are in public life only because it suits some one else's purpose to have them there.

One thing will strike you as remarkable—that scarcely anybody aboard pays fare, and no one has any remark to make about it. The white-bearded conductor—whom one would rather expect to see in the President's car next trip over the road, he looks so substantial and so patriarchai—takes the cards with the numbers printed around the edges, punches one out and hands it back without so much as glancing at the holder to see if, perchance, he is not a "ringer." But such a precaution is hardly necessary, with the issuing agent of the Legislative department at the end of the carr or, at farthest, in the parlor car fust behind. The men who pay fare are very generally from the clies and large towns, for a railroad has looms up very tall in the mind of the average rural legislator, and often, indeed, he accepts it with no adequate sense of the contract imposed by acceptance.

The town and city dweller, on the other hand, is enlightened, and he counts the cost before he commits himself, of course, the "yush." legislator of the city slums is safe with the president's commissionership nominations were taken the cards with the node of the average rural legislator, and often, indeed, he accepts it with no adequate sense of the contract imposed by acceptance.

Judge Primm Wanted to Compound a Misdemeanor.

RYAN'S SHORTEST SPEECH.

How City Connselor Marshall Happened to Migrate to Missouri-One of the Most Remarkable Verdicts.

n a Judge on the bench proposes to resecuting Attorney of his court a astonishing one. Yet this fact is the point of a story told by ex-Gov. Charles P. Johnson, and Gov. Johnson, as a party to the remarkable deal in question, laughs as he tells the story.

"It was in the old days when the Criminal Court of St. Louis had its quarters in the

"It was in the old days when the Criminal Court of St. Louis had its quarters in the Court-house instead of at the Four Courts," says Gov. Johnson, "and Judge Wilson Primm was on the bench." I think the year was about 188, and I was then Circuit Attorney.

"Judge Primm was one of the tenderesthearted men I ever knew, and during his service as a criminal judge he was especially merciful to youthful offenders in his anxiety to save them from possibly unmerited disgrace at that time the law was, that in criminal cases against boys under 18 years of age the accused should have trial by jury, and in the event of a verdict of guilty it was left to the discretion of the presiding judge to commit them either to the jull or the House of Refuge, as he might deem best. Also, during the progress of the trial the court-room was cleared of all save the court officers, the principals, witnesses and law-yers of the case under way.

"One day a boy about 12 or 13 years old was brought into court charged with larceny, the theft of a bundle of gloves from a little retail store on Frankin avenue. The proprietor of the store and the police officer who made the arrest were the witnesses against the boy. The storekeeper testified to having heard the cry of 'stop thief' raised in front of his store, and rushing to the sidewalk, saw two boys running away, and was fold that they had snatched a package of his goods and made off. He chased them, and on the next cowner the police officer had caught one of the boys and recovered the bundle of gloves, which had been dropped in their flight.

"The officer, of course, testified to having seen the boys running and to the fact of the arrest of one of them, the other having escaped. No one positively identified the accused as having committed the theft, that is, no eye-witness of the theft itself. "The boy was a gord-looking iad, and from his own story if appeared that he was the least guilty party in the theft, probably being led into it by a hardened companion. Anyway, it was his first oftense;

me:
"Johnson, that boy is too young to have
s life ruined by conviction in this case, he man from whom the gloves were olen says himself that their value was not er $1.75. I now propose to you that you stolen says himself that their value was not over $1.75. I now propose to you that you and I unite in compounding a misdemeanor. If you'll pay half the value of the stolen gloves I'll pay the other half, and in this way you can make it all right with the presecuting witness, who only wants his money, and the boy will go free."
"To save my life, I couldn't help but laugh at the gravity with which old Judge Primm made this astounding proposition. But I dodged the rather dangerous issue by nolle prossing the case promptly on the spot, seeing what the Judge intended, and the boy went free in that way."

Frank Ryan's Shortest Speech.

Attorney Frank K. Ryan of St. Louis holds the record for the shortest speech ever delivered in a law case in the Circuit Courts of St. Louis, and the story is a Courts of St. Louis, and the story is a laughable one.

It was tried before Judge Barclay some seven or eight years ago. Judge Barclay is now on the State Supreme Bench. Attorney Ryan was counsel for the plaintiff. A contract had heen entered into for the removal of certain dangerous buildings on one of the busiest streets of St. and there had been some misundersty.

irift of what he was trying to say, and the lefendant was so deaf-that it was equally mpossible for him to hear what was being said. Their examination and testimony in the witness stand was a comedy in itself. The stuttering piaintiff grew black in the stuttering piaintiff grew black in the tory plain to the jury, and then the deaf effendant took the stand and was shouted by the lawyers until the court-room was an an uproar. Also, like all very deaf people, a himself talked in a very low tone, and the ary had as much trouble understanding im as it had with his stammering opponent. When their evidence had all been even it left the case worse muddled than been elaborate plea for his client and argued one and loud for a verdict in his behalf, hen came Attorney Ryan's innings, short ind brilliant, "Gentlemen," said Mr. Ryan, "you have and brilliant.

"Gentlemen," said Mr. Ryan, "you have heard the two principals in this suit. In the name of heaven, is it any wonder that they have disagraed, with one unable to talk and the other unable to hear? I leave if to your sense of justice if my client shall be made to suffer pecuniarily for this. He did his best, but you see against what fearful odds he must have worked."

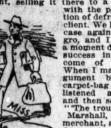

It was a bold point to make, but it won. The short speech made everybody laugh, and the jury came back in five minutes with a verdict for the plaintiff.

Why Mr. Marshall Came Here.

Why Mr. Marshall Came Here.

City Counsellor Wm. C. Marshall would to-day be practicing law in Mississippi instead of Missouri had it not been for a remarkable decision which he encountered in his first case.

'It was during the reconstruction period down South," says Mr. Marshall, "and the justices appointed to administer law throughout the State of Mississippi were a hard lot. They were ex-store-keepers, peddlers, politicians, everything except lawyers, and they ran things in their courts to suit themselves. I had just finished college and had the profoundest respect for the law and for proper legal procedure. My first case was undertaken for a client of my father's, who was sick and, unable to attend to it himself. A negro, who was raising cotton on shares on our client's land, had smuggled his cotton to town in the night, selling it there to a merchant, with the plain intention of defrauding our client. We had a clear case against the negro, and I never for a moment doubted my success in the outcome of the case. When I made my argument before the carpet-bag justice he listened attentively, and then said; "The trouble is, Mr. Marshall, that this merchant, a third and innovent party, has already paid for this cotton and will be the loser." "Under the statutes of the State of Mississippl, I replied, 'the owner of the land has the first lien on cotton grown under an agreement such as existed between our client and the defendant, and is given the right to follow the property through any number of purchasers until he recovers his claim.' And I then showed the justice the statute to which I referred. He read it carefully. "The next moment he reached in his breast pocket and publied out a paper, which he laid claim.' And I then showed the justice the statute to which I referred. He read it carefully.

"The next moment he reached in his breast pocket and pulled out a paper, which he laid before him with much impressiveness.

"Mr. Marshall,' said he, 'there is my commission as justice, and under its authority I administer the law to the best of my ability. If I find that the statutes of the State of Mississippi conflict with my idea of the law and of justice, I shall not hesitate to ignore such statutes and to override them. In the present case I find for the defendant.

"And, so far as he was concerned, the case was closed. But through the courtesy of the opposing lawyer the case was submitted to arbitration on the outside, and I secured the amount of my client's claim. Then I reported the facts to my father.

"If this is the way the law is administered here.' I said to him in conclusion, "I have enough of it. I shan't practice in Mississippl." And I'did not, after that one experience. Of course things are changed there now, but that condition lasted for some time, making the law courts a farce so far as justice was concerned."

A Remarkable Verdict.

A Remarkable Verdict.

Lawyer Leander J. Smith, a somewhat eccentric Mexican, who practiced in St. Louis courts some years since, had the honor of temporarily securing one of the most remarkable verdicts ever given by a local jury.

It was in a damage suit, and Smith, in his opening speech for the plaintiff made this assertion:

"Gentlemen of the jury, when I am through with the evidence in this case, I will drive the defendant and his lawyer from this court room."

This was a bold threat, especially as it happened that when the evidence was all in. Judge Wickham, before whom the case was tried, informed the two lawyers that the evidence for the plaintiff failed to show any grounds for the bringing of the suit, and that the jury should be so instructed. Of course, this was an out-and-out victory for the defendant and his lawyer hurried out of the court room to a case which was await-

SOMETHING ABOUT A WONDERFUL NEW SCIENTIFIC TOY.

The thaumatrope is a new scientific toy demonstrating the falling of a drop of water. The disc is first pasted upon a piece of cardboard and cut round about half an inch from the black line. Then all the black and white vertical slits are cut out carefully with a sharp knife, and a hole is made through the white center.

The back is glued upon a wooden spool so that the hellow center of the spool is exactly concentric with the disc. A short stick with a button on one end is run through both the disc and spool. Holding the stick with the left hand, the disc is made to rotate rapidly by pulling a string wound partially on the spool. Standing in front of a mirror and looking at the image in it through the slits of the revolving disc, falling and splashing will be seen. To make it planer the slits might be cut twice as wide as indicated in the cut. The thaumatrope is the practical result of a series of 43 photographic exposures made within less than two seconds.

"Oh, shut up," said he, "but I saw him lick his lips."

"Or even chops or steaks?"

"Very well, I will then," said the Captain, closing his eyes.

"What is it, Doctor?"

I went to a rock, and out of a hole I pulled my case of instruments.

I thanked them kindly for their compliment to my professional skill.
"But," said I, "suppose it falls on me, what then?"

That was a corker, but Jack rose to the occasion.

"It's nineteen to one it won't, Doctor, but if it so be it does, well then I suppose one of us must 'elp you through."

And getting his six-shooter he called the men up.
"Look you here, you blighted cannibals, you wharf rats, you Liverpool dock sweepings, what kind of men d'ye call yourselves anyhow? Are you hungry already? Can't you starve for a week? This comes of saling in a well-found ship, you dirty marines. If you'deen in some vessels you'd have thought nothing of a fortnight on an eld chew of tobacco. The first man that says any more, why I'll shoot him."
And with that he pulled out his pistol and cocked it.
"Bloot, Captain dear," said an Irishman from behind the rest, "and we'll eat him."
And then they laughed. Yes, they laughed. But the bo'son speke up again.
"Well, it's all very fine and gay, sir, but what are you to do? Shall we sit and eat our fingers and starve to death?"
"Hold on," said I, stepping up; "I've got the idea, 'You men clear out and I'll talk with the Captain. Now, go."
"Lapt, Duncan," I began, "there's something in what the men say."
"There's murder in it," said he.
"Ye heard that killings's sometimes no murder. Besides, it's political necessity.

"It would be healthier for you if you were sick." said the Captain.

I flushed, for, as you can see, I must have been a very appetizing kind of man when I was 2. My complexion is still good, and I was plump then, even then.
"Capt. Duncan," I said, severely, "I was thinking of that and of you."
"Why of me?"
"Don't you see, they will certainly play hankey-pankey with you when you are asleep. You'll wake up and find yourself frying—here—and elsewhere."

STRONG BULLISH SENTIMENT

There Was But Little Increase in th Cash Business, While the Cotton Business Is Depressed.

much wheat short. The day-byrabid believer in low prices appears to be of the opinion that it is not exactly safe to sell too much wheat short. The day-by-day "scalper" feels favorable toward the long side for his scalping operations. And the long-suffering, but ever-hopeful bull is beginning once more to see some good in the market. Not that anything of a strongly marked bullish character has materialized. The actual situation is about as it was a week ago, when nearly everything indicated and nearly everyone looked for lower prices and a resumption of liquidating sales. But, after a slight dip downward to 50% for May last Monday, the market steadled itself, and since then has shown a resistance to bearish influences that aroused the more favorable sentiment that has of late existed. The resultant reaction was only to 52%c, but the close of yesterday was near the top-at 52c, which was %c above last Saturday.

The larger decrease than expected in supplies in sight was really the first item to brace the market. Not that the last decrease of 1,600,000 bu in the visible of this country was so large as to indicate stocks in sight would be wiped out before another crop was harvested at the same rate weekly, but the fact that every market of prominence in this country, except Duluth, showed more or less reduction in its stock indicated that the drawing down in supplies was so general all over the country that it afforded encouragement to those who believe most of the wheat in this country is actually in sight. The next decrease may not be so large as the last, owing to the greater receipts at Northwestern country warehouses to these milling centers, and is not pressed for sale, having already been sold against for May, the effect should not be the same as were this wheat coming from first hands. Still, the wishle must decrease much more rapidly than it has since it reached its maximum to arouse confidence and bring about higher prices, unless something else develops to bring about thath happy result.

That "something else" is a short crop, eith and that way against him.

So very few notes of alarm have been heard from the winter wheat crop of this country, and these notes chiefly in the shape of fears the plant might be damaged, that the present outlook can be summed up as more than usually favorable for a plant-just emerging from an unusually-lengthy and severe winter. It would appear that the plant was thoroughly protected by the ice and snow that cover it. The principal doubts are felt regarding the crop of France, but from that country no outright statements of damage are received. The latest news came in private cables late yesterday from Paris to two St. Louis parties. One read: "Gradually thawing; damage doubtful; market dropping." The other: "Estimated late frost did some damage. Too early to tell." The weak close to the Paris market yesterday did not indicate any particular alarm was felt. It would not be surprising, too, if a howl of damage should be market yesterday did not indicate any particular alarm was felt. It would not be surprising, too, if a howl of damage should be wafted from far-off Russia. In the Central and Southern provinces, where the greater portion of the crop of that country is raised, the ground was bare of snow during all the recent extreme cold and hard frosts that prevailed. Short crops in these two largest wheat-growing countries of Europe, in connection with reduced yields in Argentina and other Southern countries, would be a god-send for the American farmer.

The cash demand locally has not been such of late as to inspire confidence. The cash demand locally has not been such of late as to inspire confidence. Not but that orders continued to arrive from mills located in other States—in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Arkansas. But most these orders were limited to a price that made filling them an impossibility. The city milling demand was small and only of the take-it-as-required description. Resultant sales were consequently moderate, 163,000 bu being taken from stocks in store, most of which bought yesterday, including 50,000 bu for Southern mills. Recelpts for the week were only 24,000 bu, but. withdrawais from store reduced the stock 135,000 bu and the amount now 4,063,500 bu, of which 3,681,000 bu No. 2 red. Yesterday's price for No. 2 red was 51c.

That corn possesses strength of its own has been shown quite decidedly during several weeks past, even when the weight of a weak and declining wheat market was bearing most heavily upon it. The fact that the surplus available for manufacturing purposes, for shipment abroad and for feeding off the farms is confined to a few States is groving itself more and more as time passes. The country west of the Mississippihas none to spare and in some States will have to import supplies before another crop is cut. In the South a larger yield than ever before was harvested, but not enough to carry that section to a new crop independent of the North, any more than did the large crop of oats the South raised last year. So the question is, can the few Northern States that had the surplus meet all the demands that will be made upon them during the next ten months? From the meager way in which they are letting go of their corn now, they either do not feel inclined to self at present prices, or else are running their supplies so low that they have become alarmed and have ceased selling freely. There was not much of an advance in the docal market last week, than it was to buy it in the country to come here. The bids sent out were altractive, as compared with other weeks from come in and buy freely so, that several mills reduced their output and one mill closed flown. Foreign trade was most discouraging. Only occasionally could an order be filed, even in special brands, to which business entirely confined itself, and there was no profit in these sales, the miller doing well if he escaped at bare cost. Most cable bids ranged from 9d to is below sellers prices and it was impossible to work foreigners up any on their prices. Some sales were made to Cuba, the lowering of the import duty having admitted this country as a seller to that island again. Domestic orders continued for small amounts and principally from the South, several mills here filling orders from Arkansas and Louisiana. Little done with the Southeast, but an increased business looked for from that section, as their own mills are shutting down owing to lack of wheat to run on. Nothing done with the East. Week's shipments: 34,226 barrels, 15,146 barrels Bast, 18,523 barrels South, 655 barrels North and West—against 35,511 barrels last week, 44,509 year ago.

This week's output of 81. Louis mills was: Kehlor Bros., 9,900 barrels; E. O. Stanard Milling Co., 8,000; George P. Plant Mill Co., 5,500; St. Louis Milling Co., 4,000; Sessinghaus Milling Co., 2,000; George P. From the Street.

Notwithstanding the many serious complaints that are and have been for a year or more quite general among the fruit commission merchants and produce operators over the situation and absence of profits, the surprising fact remains that there is not a solitary store for rent throughout the fruit and produce district at present. In fact, this is the first time in years that one or more stores were not for rent in the produce district. Not only are all occupied, but one or two partles on the street are looking for new quarters and find none obtainable without considerable of a bonus to the present occupants. Thus, paradoxical as it may seem, the demand for stores appears most urgent when the complaint is widest over the hard times—a good many admitting that they are not, and have not, for months been making actual running expenses in the business.

The very latest move by a party here who handles a good deal of fruit, or proposes to do so, is a conference with the various railroads who bring such goods to the city, largely California products, with a view of getting sufficient space in the various depots for a display and spreading of the fruit for the purpose of selling the same at auction immediately after arrival. It is a substitute for a regular auction house and sales-room, and if the party succeeds, will avoid considerable of the customary expenses inseparable from sales at the usual auctions. The most difficult feature to surmount will be to get the body of purchasers to these various depots—most of them being so far away from the fruit and produce quarters. It is also doubtful whether the railroads will consent and yield so much to the new innovation, as it may antagonize other patrons.

Final Suffering of Prices in Chicago Market.

WHEAT, CORN, OATS DOWN

The Provision Department, Though Well Bolstered Up, Barely Held Its Own.

weakest feature in wheat was the prospective failure of the visible to decrease largely Monday.

Wheat opened with from 16% below the price it closed on Thursday. The cables were strady, the receipts in the Northwest no heavier than had been expected and nothing else which might be calculated to cause weakness was made public at the opening or had occurred since the close on Thursday. New York placed selling orders in the hands of half a dozen commission houses here for execution at the opening. The placing of these orders caused the May price to open at 53% for the most part with a few sales at 53% c, as compared with 53% c at the close on Thursday. In New York and St. Louis on the contrary, prices showed 16% improvement at the opening. The tendency here during the first hour after the opening was toward the picking up of the 16% cdropped at the start. It was generally expected that the decrease in the visible supply Monday will be less than one million bushels. This was a prominent factor in the market. Receipts here were 18 cars. Minneapolis received 375 cars since Thursday morning, and Duluth reported 175 cars for the day. Atlantic ports clearances since Thursday were equal to 320,000 bushels in wheat and flour. Primary market receipts were 452,000 bushels. Advices from the seaboard were to the effect that there were a good many inquiries from abroad for wheat for shipment, and some orders were also received in this market for exports to Liverpool. The market here had a very narrow range, 52% 526 being the under edge of it, and 53% c the upper, with the lower price ruling at the close.

The corn market was rather easy at the start and decidedly weak toward the end.

very narrow range, 52%@53c being the under edge of it, and 53%c the upper, with the lower price ruling at the close.

The corn market was rather easy at the start and decidedly weak toward the end. The concluding weakness was due to the estimated receipts of 640 cars for Monday. The primary market receipts were 544,000 bushels. The opening price for May was from 44%c to 45c, with the higher of these the most general trading price. There was some buying by local scalpers when wheat made its temporary %c advance, but the estimated receipts for Monday were too heavy for any hope of immediate improvement and early buyers made very vigorous efforts to get rid of their purchases.

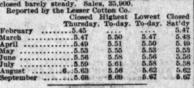

After rising to 45%c, the ensuing decline took the price down to 44%c44%c, which was the closing quotation. For Saturday the oats market was fairly active. Prices closed a shade under the last quotations on Thursday in sympathy with corn, but, notwithstanding this, the market was relatively firm. Higher prices were paid usually and only at the end did any sign of a decline occur. May started at 29%c, sold to 29%c, upto 29%c, down to 29c and rested at 29@2%c.

Provisions, helped by fight hog receipts, opened firm at an advance of 10c for pork, 5c for lard and from unchanged to 2½c higher for ribs. The tendency was slightly downward for a short time and then the feeling became steady, with more indications of improvement than of selling lower until the corn market became so radically weak. The drop of %c in corn had a depressing effect and the early gain was lost. May pork and ribs closed unchanged and May lard 29c higher. Estimated cars for Monday: Wheat, 40; corn, 640; oats, 330; hogs. 40,000 head.

$2,470 FOR A WORK-BASKET

The Magnificent Sewing Tools of a New York Belle.

Special Correspondence Sunday Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—This is the story of a work-basket that cost $2,470. It is a birthday gift to a Fifth avenue belle who sews things for charity, and it has been sews things for charity, and it has been made at the order of a very lavish young man, who hopes thus to emphasize the measure of his affection for the young lady. This $2,470 work-basket itself is of solid silver. It has all the things which a pror silver. It has all the things which a properly equipped basket should have, and they are all of either solid gold or silver and ornamented with many high-priced gems. A fashlonable up-town jeweler made the basket, which is the most magnificent production of this kind that has ever been made, in this country at least.

The bill this young Croesus has received shows the following items and prices:

Many Have Been Cured.

It is because four out of every five persons who buy Dr. Edison's Obesity remedies have either taken them before or have been urged to get them by friends who have used them and know their great value that we feel encouraged to spend money to let others know how valuable the remedies are. A large number of prominent people who would not think of publishing a testimonial on any other subject are sufficiently grateful towards Dr. Edison to write a few words of encouragement for the benefit of many others who are seeking relief from the dangerous disease of Obesity and its disagreeable causes, such as chronic Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Kidney Disease and Rheumatism, all of which cause dangerous fatty issues and lead to a premature death. Fleshy people are more predisposed to Colds, Pneumonia and La Grippe, Miss Julia Ross Howard, Planters' Hotel, and very prominent in St. Louis musical and literary circles, writes: "Three years ago I began to gain in fiesh, and feit very uncomfortable after eating or walking. Fat rapidly accumulated around my heart, and, in fact, the internal organs of my body seemed to be crowded out of place. My suffering continued to increase. I used Dr. Edison's Fruit Salt, a tablespoonful in a tumbler of water, which makes a delightful drink. I obtained immediate relief from Dyspepsia and catarrh of the Stomach and began to lose unhealthy surplus fat rapidly. Fuse a few of Dr. Edison's Obesity Pills between meals, and am now reduced to two-thirds of my former weight; have a clear skin and a pure complexion."

Chadwick, Ill., April 5, 1893.—William Rummel, Postmaster of Chadwick, writes us that he lost il pounds in 10 days on one bottle of Pills and wearing the Obeslity Band.

Mrs. Caroline B. Fuller, one of St. Louis brilliant musical critics, writing from the St. Louis Musical Club, says: "Several members of the Society have been taking Dr. Edison's Obesity Pills and Fruit Sait, and are losing fat so fast and doing so nicely, that I was induced to send for three bottles each of the pills and salts. My indigestion and stomach trouble were quickly cured, and my strength increased. I have lost over 39 pounds and now feel as strong and well as formerly. I sincerely advise all fleshy ladies to use this popular harmless remedy and take no other medicine."

Measurement for band is the largest part of the abdomen measure snugly at figures 1, 2, 3. The Bands cost 32.50 each for any length up to 36 inches, but for one larger than 36 inches add 10 cents for each additional inch.

cause of complaint being an embarrasment of riches as regards choice. Again, happy, thrice happy, eligible bachelor! Naturally, where such rapturous station is possible, there is a multitude of claimants for possession and authoritative recognition. And naturally, also, great care has been exercised in the study of these claims before allowing the claimants to be enrolled in this list of what may rightfully be called the corps d'elite of local society. Therefore, to the well-informed, there need be no trouble in knowing just who of the society men of St. Louis belong to the inner circle coming under the happy head of "eligibles." And in considering this fortunate class it is also only natural that a certain established group of the best known of its members should be found forming its front rank. Membership in the Imperial Club during the society season proper and in the Country Club during those days of the spring, summer and autumn that may be spent in St. Louis, is imperative to the St. Louis bachelor setting up as a society eligible. It is unnecessary, and would be a trific too personal, to name the houses at which it is required there should be undisputed entree, and this applies also to the society events attended, with the exception, perhaps, of the Imperial Club cotillions themselves, the formal entertainments of the Dramatic Club and one or two other fixed events of a public rather than a private nature. Under this system of classification the segregation of the eligible bachelors of St. Louis becomes easy. Thus separated from the main body of bachelors at large in society, the further identification of what may be called the front rank of the eligibles is also easy. And when this is done, according to the best informed authorities in local society, it will be found that, like the muses of classic lore, the front rank of eligible bachelors of St. Louis society are: Mr. Take' Davis. Mr. Alonzo Christy Church, Mr. Haarstick. Mr. George von Schrader. Mr. Alonzo Christy Church, Mr. Hex. Primm. I

A REPRESENTATIVE GROUP. in St. Louis. When his father, the late Mr. John T. Davis, died within the past year, he left an estate valued at something like in the first place by his father and grandfather. Mr. "Jack" Davis has been in society now which the twenty millions were made in the first place by his father and grandfather. Mr. "Jack" Davis has been in society now extremely quiet in his movements and particularly averse to that sometime favorite occupation of younger Croesuses vulgarly known as "cutting a dash." He is a member of all the leading clubs, but lives modestly at the family home.

His debts of society in the way of attentions to the young women whom he meets are paid religiously without ostentatious prodigality, and he has a share in the bachelor dances which are also given to "even up" things in this connection. In appearance and dress Mr. Davis is modest, gentlemanlike and correct; he is a good dancer, a pleasing conversationalist, and in his business life exceptionally ambitious and attentive.

Some day he will make up his mind to marry, and when he does the girl who accepts him will be assured of an unassailable position in St. Louis society, a blueblooded Boston connection, and a family bank account likely to be many times larger at the time she leaves this mundane sphere than even it was on that eventful day when the does the girl who accepts him will be assured of an unassailable position in St. Louis society, a blueblooded Boston connection, and a family bank account likely to be many times larger at the time she leaves this mundane sphere than even it was on that eventful day when the does the girl was on that eventful day when the does the girl was on that eventful day when the does the girl was on that eventful day when the does the girl was on that eventful day when the do of the most cordial intimacy with the

of the most cordial intimacy with the fathers of these bewildering creatures. Being an eligible bachelor, he is necessarily in the fore front of all society affairs so long as he remains in society itself, because society as an institution of civilization may be described as an untiring and always brilliant siege of the fortifications of suitable matrimorily, the besieged fortress garrisoned by wealthy bachelors and wealthy maids alike. The only difference between the two, in this faithful and conconscientious simile, is that the beleaguered bachelor occasionally makes a sortie on his own account and charges the enemy in the open, thus carrying the war into Africa, if the quotation is applicable in this dainty connection. And when he does so, the ordinary art of war is entirely ignored and the assaulting party received with open arms and given the freedom of the camp into which he so daringly ventures. Happy eligible bachelori is a peculiarly bissful one.

No city of this great country has a larger number of pretty society girls, a fact established beyond contradiction by the further fact that wealthy New Yorkers, Chicagoese, and even titled foreigners are acquiring the habit of coming to St. Louis for wives acquiring the habit of coming to St. Louis for wives.

But the native eligible bachelor has the advantage in this competition if he chooses to claim it, and being at home in the fairest garden of beauty known to the Western continent, it is his own fault if he does not cull the choicest blossom therefrom with which to adorn his individual domestic conservatory. A privileged honey-bee in evening clothes, his crest a heart rampant flanked by purses of gold couchant, the eligible bachelor of St. Louis may be described as flitting happily from flower to flower all season long, his only legitimate cause of complaint being an embarrassment of riches as regards choice. Again, happy, thrica happy, eligible bachelor!

and interested in other local enterprises. He is a member of the St. Louis, the University, the Mercantile, and other clubs.

Mr. William T. Haarstick is the son of Mr. Henry C. Haarstick, President of the Mississippl Valley Transportation Company, ex-President of the Merchants' Exchange, and one of the wealthiest and best known of local merchants. He is in business with his father and is daily on the floor of the Merchants' Exchange.

Of German descent, young Mr. Haarstick is small and natty of figure, scrupulously up to date in dress, precise and somewhat formal in manner. He is well known and well liked in society, a popular clubman and in unfailing evidence at all the leading events of the social, theatrical or operatic season. Helr to a comfortable fortune and a growing business, Mr. Haarstick is one of the "catches" of St. Louis.

Mr. Lindell Gordon, whose mother was a Miss Lindell, is one of those locally famous and fortunate personages classed under the head of "Lindell heirs," descendants of that sturdy old pioneer, Peter Lindell, whose sagacious investments in St. Louis real estate in the early days did so much toward rightfully endearing his memory to his posterity.

Mr. Gordon is something of an amateur athlete, an enthusiastic member of the Country Club, a crack rider, a good whip and at one time an untiring cyclist. He is an attractive looking young bachelor, fairhaired, blue eyed, and of good figure.

In society he is best known in the very exclusive circle, and is popular. His serious occupation in Hie is found in the position of President of the Lindell Gordon Real Estate Company, which cheerfully mansages a big lot of Lindell real estate from which a somewhat imposing revenue is derived.

Richard Mansfield in Repertoire and Francis Wilson in "The Devil's Deputy" Lead the Novelties.

Mr. Richard Mansfield will be the foremost attraction of the season at the Hagan Opera-house. He commences his engaget to-morrow night. This year he will ent in addition to selections from his ormer repertoire, two distinct novelties— Mapoleon Bonaparte' and "Arms and the Mr. Mansfield will open with "Napoleon Bonaparte," a dramatization by orimer Stoddard, in five acts, of incidents connected with the life of the great Corsican leader. The first act describes half an hour of the Emperor Napoleon at Tilsit; the second act deals with the treachery of hisfollowers and his fall from power after his return from Moscow. These incidents are made to occur in the throne room at Fon tainebleau. The third act recites certain events on the Island of Elba. The fourth act represents the night before Waterloo, events on the Island of Eiba. The fourth act represents the night before Waterloo, and the fifth act is placed at Longwood, at the Island of St. Helena. Mansfield's conception of this important role is said to be the greatest triumph in the young actor's career. The production is made on a magnificent scale, and it is safe to say that all literary St. Louis will pay homage to Mr. Mansfield for his interpretation of such an important historical character.

On Tuesday night Mr. Mansfield will present "Arms and the Man," a comedy in three acts, by Bernard Show. The play is described as a satirical comedy, with its scenes laid in Russia. The unique title possibly may have been suggested by the first line in Virgil, "To arms and the man I sing." This comedy proved a success during its recent run in New York, and in the role of Capt. Blutschil Mr. Mansfield has again created a characterization which differs widely from all previous roles he has yet offered the public. Mr. Mansfield will confine himself at the Wednesday matine to his inimitable portrayal of "Beau Brummell," and Wednesday evening he will appear as the Baron Chevrail in "A Parisian Romance." Thursday evening he will present "Prince Karl;" Friday, "Beau Brummell:" Saturday matinee, "The Scarlet Letter," and close his St. Louis engagement with his dual impersonation of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Miss Beatrice Cameron still remains the leading lady of the company, of which the principal members are D. H. Harkins, Wm. Harcourt, A. G. Andrews, W. N. Griffith, F. Smiles, F. C. Butler, J. W. Liliputians Again.

Liliputians Again.

To-night will inaugurate the opening of the second week's engagement of that famous aggregation of little folks, the Liliputians, in their new play, "Humpty-Dumpty Up to Date," which last week proved so popular that hundreds of people were turned away from the doors. The bright play gives them many advantages, and serves to bring out to the fullest extent their versatility and cleverness. The management have spared nothing to make it one of the most beautiful and attractive shows ever presented by them. The costumes, girls, the bewildering transformations, the ballets, and the bright and catchy music and witty dialogue, all serve to make up a pleasing ensemble. The various actors and actresses are well known to the amusement-going public of St. Louis, and their droll antics appeal strongly to both young and old. Franz Ebert, Adolf Zink, Tony Merkel, Herman Ring, Selma Geerner, Toni Metster, Ida Mahr, Beralie Yeager and Elise Lau are as bright as ever, and seem to win new favor whenever they appear. The giant, Kaleb, is a strong contrast with little Ebert, and when the two appear on the stage together, the sight is

STAVENHAGEN AND GERARDY.

Their Concert to Be Given Wednesday Night.

Wednesday evening the concert of the nuch-lauded musicians, Stavenhagen and Gerardy, will be given at Entertainment Hall. Stavenhagen is a planist of mature years, comparatively speaking, while his associate, Gerardy, whose instrument is the cello, is still but a mere boy, being only 14 years of age. The two have been playing together this season in New York and other Eastern cities and have received great commendation. There has been no dearth of great musical artists in St. Louis this winter and the lovers of music will have had ample opportunity for a comparison of the stars.

The date for this concert had been set for Tuesday night, but owing to the entertainment to be given that evening by the Apollo Club it was set over one day.

Accused of Stealing Oats.

Warrants for burglary and larceny were issued yesterday for Patrick Kennedy and Morris Dalton, charging them with breaking into the stable of the Barnard Mercantile Co., at 1437 Blair avenue, Thursday night and stealing $20 worth of oats. Dennis Harrington, foreman of the stable, traced the grain along the ground to Henry Boad's barn, at 1406 North Sixteenth street. Boad said he bought several sacks of grain from two men Thursday night, and Harrington selzed Kennedy when the latter called for his pay. Dalton was arrested later.

Numerous prominent members of the Legislature on the Democratic side are greatly displeased with the reports of Baker's alleged connection with Selfer's schemes and are inclined to condemn him for the loss of 314,000 of the penitentiary funds deposited in the defunct bank and lost. In fact, it is said that a number of Democratic legislators have agreed among themselves that they will oppose Baker's confirmation unless the amount lost is made good, and as the Commissioner is doubtless unable to make restitution his chances for holding onto his office are anything but rosy. The loss of the $14,000 alluded to came about in this way. When Baker was Warden of the penitentiary he had charge of the funds of the institution, and as Selter was one of his bondsmen he deposited the money in Selter's bank. When he resigned the Wardenship to be had charge of the funds of the institution, and as Selter was one of his bondsmen he deposited the money in Selter's bank. When he resigned the Wardenship to be come Commissioner and turned over the effects to his successor, he tendered a check on the Selter bank for the cash balance, $14,000. His successor was never able to collect the amount of the check, and as a consequence the penitentiary fund of the broken bank. Under other circumstances the State of Illinois is a large creditor of the broken bank. Under other circumstances the State of Illinois is a large creditor of the broken bank. ance, $14,000. His successor was never able to collect the amount of the check, and as a consequence the penitentiary fund of the State of Illinois is a large creditor of the broken bank. Under other circumstances the State might not have been the loser on account of the liabilities of the bondsmen, but in this case the sureties were parties from whom nothing can be recovered. Seiter and Ramsay were Baker's bondsmen, and as the one is bankrupt and the estate of the other insolvent, the $14.000 is probably lost unless Baker finds means to make it good, which is hardly within the range of possibilities. It is said that a number of Democratic legislators are in doubt about supporting Baker for confirmation, even in the event of his restoring the lost $14,000 and that several have declared their intention of opposing him under any circumstances.

The Theater Hat Must Go.

Written for the Sunday Post-Dispatch.
Pray, ladies, list to what I say.
Don't wear such large hats to the play,
For men behind you curse and swear
Till-brimstone permeates the air.
They claim you hide the stage from view
And all the lovely actors, too;
And that is how they struck a plan
Between the acts to see a man.
For they do solemnly agree than they should be.
Now, ladies, wear a smaller bonnet,
And then you may depend upon it
You'll gain men's friendship and good will,
And without large hats they'll love you still.

Henceforth the "dining-room girl" of the Western hotel will be held in honor and reverence. In the person of Miss Maud Schermerhorn of the Patterson Hotel of Harper, Kan., the whole class has vindicated itself.

Early one morning in November Miss Schermerhorn and Miss Harper, who slopt together in a room over the kitchen, were awakened by smoke. A fire had broken out in the room beneath, and before they could escape Miss Harper was overcome by the smoke. Miss Schermerhorn broke the window with her bare hands and carried her companion out onto a balcony. Passing to the front of the house she broke open another window, re-entered the house and made her way from room to room, waking the sleepers. At the door of the last room she sank down exhausted. The gentleman who was in this room tripped over her form as he stepped out. He stopped, picked her up and succeeded in making his way with his unconscious burden to the street. A few minutes later the whole house was in flames. A large part of her way through the house the heroic girl was forced to crawl on hands and knees, owing to the dense smoke, but she kept on until every sleeper was aroused. But for her efforts all, or nearly all, would undoubtedly have perished. Miss Schermerhorn is only 16 years old and is very pretty.

WHISTLING WOMEN.

Ban Francisco Has a Score or More of Fair Sifficuses.

The young women of San Francisco have thrown aside their mandolins, have hung up their tennis racquets, have ceased to wave their hands in Delsartean style, have given up singing "A-a-ha" in all keys and have thrown themselves heart and soul and lungs into whistling. No less than twenty of the city's daughters have formed a class to master the rentle art, and are working with a sublime defiance of the old tradition concerning whistling women. Their teacher is Miss Gertrude Judd, who took a course of training under the world renowned sifficuse, Mrs. Shaw. When a young woman applies to Miss Judd for admission to her classes, she has to undergo examination and criticism scarcely less severe than that which Mme. Marchesi's pupils experience. The would-be whistler has her musical ear and her register tested, and has to satisfy Miss Judd of her ability before she is received.

"Clever whistlers," says Miss Judd, "must be born, not made. They must have cast-iron lungs, sound health, a favorable mouth cavity formation—sounds grussome, doesn't ift—and perseverance. The strain on the orbicular muscle alone is considerable. And they must even have good teeth. You can see in my face all-ready the whistle lines. They run in the form of an inverted V from the nose to the chin, Mrs. Shaw has them. The points I have mentioned with a lack of nervous affections, a good ear, and the ability to strike the notes you want on the piano are all that are wanted except, of course, application—it is an art that must be taken except.

Every one knows that the married life of the late P. G. Hamerton was a particularly happy one. He was an Englishman and his wife was a Frenchwoman, "with a strong taste for the classic literature of her own country." He became her pupil in French and she became his pupil in English. They were strict taskmasters, and never allowed a fault in either language to pass uncorrected. They had a very happy life, made doubly happy by reason of their common interests.

I regret to say that the majority of women who write take strange positions before the camera. They roll their eyes or they twist their neck, or they do something to make themselves appear picturesque. To see one who has no thought of appearing otherwise than as she really is is a great comfort, and her portraits add much to my respect for Miss French.

Then the boys kept'as still as mice, for they knew the story was coming. The doctor looked cross-eyed into his pipe to make sure it was alight, gave a reassuring puff and began:

"It was during the years I was in Africa. There were many hostile natives in the region, and the hunting party, five men and myself, kept at pretty close quarters in the camp during the night, making our hunting excursions during the day.

Only one of pur party had a rifle, carrying a large ball, suitable for big game. We had half a dozen natives with us. They were armed only with their long apears, which, as I have often told you, is their constant weapon.

AN AWYUL WARNING.

Special Correspondence Sunday Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Paris has no cause to complain of duliness the past week. The coming in of the Ribot Ministry, the voting of the amnesty bill, the death of Canrobert, last of the Marshals of France, and two ex-citing scenes at the Chamber of Deputies such is the record of the week.

If the family of Marshal Canrobert had American pride and pluck they would firmly and politely decline the 20,000 francs voted by the Chamber for the na-tional funeral of their ancestor and claim nor of burying their own dead. A stormy debate over the matter, insulting allusions to the "2d of December," the "coup d'etat," "agent of Eugenie," of connivance with Bazaine in the capitulation of Metz, etc., furnish sufficient cause for taking such an attitude of the turbulence of the Radicais and the Liberals, the 2,000 francs was voted.

While these insults poured in from the Left, Ribot was making a telling speech, in which the sentences "Are we to revive the spectacle of our dissensions over the coffin of the last Marshal of France?" and "How are we to explain such a thing to Europe and to the world?" gave the keynote. The confusion prevented all but the official reporters from hearing the speech. In spite of the turbulence of the Radicals and the Liberals, the 20,000 francs was voted.

The voting of the amnesty bill made lively times in several quarters outside France. Various exiles are packing their household goods and gods and preparing to return to their beloved Paris boulevards.

At Brussels M. Edward Drummont, editor of the Libre Parole, remarks quite naturally, as his packing goes on, that "the amnesty is an intelligent and generous measure," and characteristically adds: "I now feel a pang of remorse for not having committed more offenses."

Count Dillon, who was condemned with Gen. Boulanger, was in Italy when the news of the amnesty came. As his property had been confiscated, the news meant to him something besides his personal freedom. His return to Paris is eagerly expected by hosts of friends.

Then there is Rochefort. This is his third return from exile. Among the exiles he is called the "classic." He has managed to make life tolerably agreeable at No. 4 Clarence Terrace, London. Nevertheless, the news came as a pleasant surprise. His packing up began on the instant. He returns to his Paris, to his Intransignant and to the fight which he declares he will keep up. To quote his words: "I remain free; I do not disarm." Rochefort and opposition have come to be synonyms in French politics. A demonstration awaits his return to Paris-flowers and bravos, nothing that the authorities can complain of-after which he goes south. "After England I need sunshine," he declares.

Still another. And this time it is the iron gate of Saint-Pelagre that opens and out walks the prisoner—Deputy Gerault-Richards. Three months of the life have told on the young muscles of the prisoner, accustomed to unlimited exercise. Moreover, the damp walls have given him a touch of rheumatism. But he counts himself lucky that his sentence of "one year and fifteen days", has ended so happliy. His cell was crowded all day with friends, who came to offer congratulations.

Such are some of the incidents in connection with the voting of the Amnesty bill.

bill.

This has also been an important as well as a lively week among the theaters. The bringing out at the Porte Saint-Martin of "The Queen's Necklace" is a veritable event. For one thing it is a bit of history retoid. Endless polemics over the mysterious "affair of the necklace" went on a hundred or so years ago, and will now be renewed with this revival of the subject. Dumas in his piece defends the Queen. The historian, Michelet, became her detractor. Henri Rochefort has done the same. Royalists of the present moment will feel a natural satisfaction at the treatment of the topic by Decourcelle, which varies by little from the treatment given it by Dumas. The public generally feel a fervent interest in everything connected with Marie Antoinette.

Lastly, connoisseurs of historic and artistic treasuers will find rich satisfaction in the mise-en-scene. The five acts and thirteen tableaux give an authentic picture of the period of the Sixteenth Louis, Aithough nothing in art is accomplished suddenly, and connoisseurs know very well that the Empire style had its beginning under Louis XVI. Just as the Louis XVI. Napoleon accentuated a style already forming by grafting upon it many touches borrowed from Italy and from Egypt during his campaign in those countries. Truth to say, Napoleon shows no originality in such matters, but he was a royal borrower, not to call it by a worse name.

In the shabby domicile of the adventuress

In the shabby domicile of the adventuress La Motte Valois; in the winter scene of Porte Saint-Martin, when we see the Queen insulted by the rabble and protected by the gallant De Charny; in the shop of the great jewelers, Boehmer et Bössange, where the commercial part of the necklace affair takes place; in the scene of the idyllic Petit-Trianon—a veritable Watteau—in which Queen and maids of honer, in bouffant gowns and dainty slippers, play at butter-making; in the boudoir of Marie Antoinette at Versailles—a scene of which the infatuated Cardinal de Rohan makes a part—in short, in each and every one, gown, utensil, bibelot, each bit of furniture or of tapestry, every detail of decoration, every clock, candelabrum, even every jewel, is a reproduction of the catalogued treasures of the Louvre or the Trianon.

One may predict that just as "Mme. Sans-Gene" restored the mode of the Empire in tollettes and furniture, so "The Queen's Necklace" will bring back in costumes and brica-brac the fashion of the epoch of Louis XVI.

And Sudermann is in Paris! Thanks to the true instincts of Sarah, artist that she is, the "Heimath" of this author of the new school, which has met with great success in Austria and Germany, and which Duse is at this moment playing in Italy with an equal success, is to be given in Paris under favorable conditions.

It is difficult for the French people to warm towards anything German with much enthusiasm. A certain critic helps on the matter by saying that Sudermann in his technique as naturalist unites the methods of Goncourt and Zola; that his rather bold ideas and problems are borrowed from George Sand, and that he takes for his plays the mould of Dumas and Ibsen.

With these several mitigations the French public need not compromise themselves as respects patriotism in giving welcome to Sudermann.

Meanwhile the rehearsals are going on at the Renaissance, and Sudermann, in his renowned long and flowing black heard, is being dined and wined by his enthusiastic Paris confreres, who need no explanation and amendments in order that they shall know their Sudermann.

The past week has seen the departure from the boards of the House of Moliere of one of the greatest favorites of theater-going Paris. Got, the comedian, will be missed, and for long. For fifty years Paris has admired and loved him.

The formal "representation de retraite" will take place late in February, and the illustrious comedian has composed the programme thus: Act 5 of "L'Ecole des Femmes;" act 2 of "Le Rol S'Amuse;" act 3 of "Denise," and the second act of "Maitre Guerin." A programme full of precious souvenirs of the dear, blessed old Got, and one divines what a public it will be to whom he says his adieux.

And now Yvette Guilbert comes back to Paris after experiences beyond the Rhine which many another might not be able to make light of as does she. Before going to Berlin, she sang some of her naughty songs in London, where she astonished her audiences by singing "The Soularde" in English! Fortunately for English morals, the rest of her programme was kept within the safer limitation of the Gallic tongue.

She received a splendid offer to sing in Berlin, but refused it, as she objected "to make people laugh who had perhaps caused French tears to flow."

In Belgium and in Austria, she received cordial appreciation. In Naples, things went quite contrary. The Neapolitans insisted that she should sing to them in their own language. This she could not do, and she was hissed con amore. The best people of the town, however, rallied about her and apologized for the discourtesy of the others. She is glad enough to get back to her own Paris and the boulevards, and says that she shall not soon go roaming again.

A quarter of an inch of snow and ice in Paris obstructs public travel. It was an odd sight on Wednesday night when at the close of the theater it was found impossible sign on wednessay hight when at the close of the theater it was found impossible to obtain carriages, a slight freezing having taken place in the evening. All along the boulevards elegantly-gowned women, in dainty slippers and lace headgear, and spruce men, in evening dress, were slipping and sliding homeward as best as they could. Of these, most must needs walk several miles in these inappropriate garments. But the French never rise to such heights of good spirits, not to say gayety, as when placed in extraordinary and uncomfortable circumstances; and this occasion proved no exception to the rule. Shouts of laughter made the boulevards gay at 1 o'clock in the morning, and statistics in respect to grip show no mounting figures because of the episode.

the love of song is rarely accompanied by the business instinct which would enable them to coin their songs into dollairs.

Mr. Graham's latest success is published in to-day's Post-Dispatch, and is entitled "Sweethearts Again."

Charles Graham was born in Boston, England, in 1863. He inherited his musical gifts, for his father was a musician and composer of good repute. The boy after learning to play the plane at a Boston college gave evidence of a promising future and at the age of 10 years composed little melodies which were sung in chorus by his college companions.

In 1880, being then 17 years of age, he landed at Halifax, N. S. At first he saw no opening for his musical genius, and he accepted a position in a hotel. Then, after managing several local quartets, in which he himself sang basso, he drifted to New York City.

His first song for publication was com-

Mr. Ferd W. Risqua one of the early Presidents of the Office Men's Club, at the last squar meeting stremuously urged a return of a one-time famous feature of the club, amely the reading of papers treating of usiness and office topics. Since the office has a street of the club, and you will be sufficed to the reading of the club meeting, and gone into their handsome new uarters in the old Simmons residence on live street, this feature of the club meetings had been abandoned, and Mr. Risquarotested against it. A committee was appointed to look into the matter and a report will be submitted at the next regular meeting; on Tuesday evening of this week.

Mr. Al. Shapleigh is one of the most enthusiastic members of the very swagger Country Club, and has achieved considerable local renown as a referee of the club pole games and also as one of the invariable participants in the club races, leing a gentleman rider of no mean skill. He is also one of the group of Country Clubmen which patronized the old quarters near Bridgeton throughout the fall and winter, taking part in coon hunts, etc. Of late, however, this latter feature has been neglected, owing to the fact of interest being centered on the progress of work on the new Country Club progress of work on the new Country Club for the completion of this work in June of this year, and the Country Club people are confidently counting now on opening the new quarters with a grand Fourth of July celebration. The occasion will be made a brilliant society event.

Mr. T. Lester Crawford of the Apollo Club, the swell musical organization of the town, says-that it is only a question of time until the Apollo has a home of its own. The active membership now is sixty, the honorary is 60, with about seventy on the waiting list, and next season the latter will be enlarged with a probable increase in the cost of membership. The Apollo Club is ambitious to follow in the footsteps of the famous Mendelssohn Club of New York, an organization, like the Apollo, of trained male voices, into the honorary membership of which one of the Vanderblits was admitted about two weeks ago, after having been eight years on the waiting list. The Mendelssohn club house is one of the handsomest club buildings in New York City.

Mr. P. P. Connor of the Marquette Club is hereby respectfully presented to the local public as a model clubman, from the point of view of the domestic fireside. Mr. Connor is an enthusiastic believer in his club, but he likes it chiefly on account of its feature of weekly progressive euchre parties, attended by members and their wives and daughters. There will be such a party at the Marquette next Tuesday evening, and Mr. Connor and his wife will be among the contestants for prizes.

Mr. Wayman C. McCreery is very much interested in the success of the Noonday Club, now making a gallant effort to maintain its high standard as a leading down-town organization, and he predicts that it will come out of the struggle with flying colora. The faily table d'hote dinned of the Noonday, Mr. McCreery states, has an average attendance of 14s, the time for the close for the "free initiation" feature has been extended, and many new members are being gained in the meanwhile.

On the other hand, and somewhat contradicting Mr. McCreery's forecast, another Noonday member states that the club just now is confronted by a peculiarly menacing new development. It is said that the St. Nicholas Hotel has made arrangements to give up its beautiful baliroom on the top floor for the use of members of the St. Louis and University Clubs as a down-town lunchroom, that an exceptionally good table will be set, and that already the scheme is well under way, with every assurance of success. It is stated that this will naturally cause a loss of membership to the Noonday, because some of its members are interested in the success of the St. Nicholas and the cry is being raised that it is the duty of St. Louisans to patronize the new palatial hotels that do so much to add to the metropolitan reputation of the city. There is some feeling extant in the matter, and among some of the opponents of the Noonday that, Club is now aluded to as the "Doomsday," with a view to insinuating that its and is near at hand.

Mr. George J. Piant, known to his friends as "Jan" Plant, one of the most faithful of all the members of the St. Louis Club in his unvarying attendance, has been missed from the handsome. Clubhouse on Twenty-ninth and Locust streets for some days past. The cause of this is that Mr. Plant has gone on a business trip to Havans, Cuba. After a brief season of sicepting car, gulf steamer and hotel experience, the veteran clubman will probably appreciate even more keenly than ever before the luxury of bachelor existence at the St. Louis.
